Pearson on Tensions

Viet Key To World Accord

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson, although noting continuing co-operation between East and West in world forums, views immediate prospects for improved international understanding as "not encouraging."

Mr. Pearson was replying to six written questions on international matters put to him by The Associated Press, the United States news-gathering agency.

He was asked, in his opinion, if prospects for international understanding are better or worse than a year ago?

These matters, he replied, could not be assessed in time periods of 12 months. In some ways prospects were better, in others worse.

"As regards East-West relations immediate prospects are not encouraging particularly because of the Viet Nam crisis."

"Nevertheless, the West continues to co-operate with the Communist states in many international forums and if peace can be restored in Viet Nam I am optimistic that over the long term real progress can be made in furthering East-West understanding."

Greater Co-operation Seen

The past year had seen the first United Nations conference on trade and development and creation of permanent machinery to further its work. This was a "very important move which should lead to greater understanding and co-operation in solving the problems of the less-developed countries."

Another question asked: The Chinese People's Republic now possesses a nuclear weapon. In view of this, how do you assess the CPR's role in the world, particularly with regard to its exclusion from UN membership?

Mr. Pearson thought the question needed clarifying.

Ignore Certain Principles

Peking's exclusion from the UN did not arise from the "military or national weakness of that regime" but from the "effect on the minds of other governments of its apparent unwillingness to recognize and abide by certain principles, the chief of which is the right of the inhabitants of Formosa to self-determination and appropriate international status."

The "aggressive ideological policies of Communist China" would become "more dangerous when China is a nuclear power." Such possession would also increase Peking's prestige "especially among Asian and African states."

It would also give strength to the argument that it should be admitted to the UN "so that it can be forced to explain and defend its policies before the world assembly and take its share of responsibility for international efforts towards disarmament and security."

He was asked, as one closely associated in the past with solutions to dangerous international crises, notably the Suez affair, if he thought there is a prospect for peaceful solutions in Indochina or in the Indonesia-Malaysia dispute?

The prime minister said there is always the prospect for a peaceful solution for every international dispute. Although these two "seem intractable" with a minimum of goodwill and trust they could be solved.

'Neither Honorable Or Lasting'

The Viet Nam conflict was complicated "by its exploitation by international communism and the intervention of the U.S. to help South Viet Nam resist aggression."

A solution in Indochina would involve "arrangements for ensuring the independence, neutrality and territorial integrity of the countries forming part of the region." Laos, Cambodia and South Viet Nam "should be permitted to pursue their goals in peace and security, free of the threat of aggression and subversion promoted by authorities outside their borders."

"Any 'solution' based on capitulation to aggression would be neither honorable nor lasting." The basic requirement in Viet Nam would appear to be a decision by North Viet Nam "to desist from their present policies and to leave their neighbors alone."

In the Indonesia-Malaysia dispute, Canada was concerned and worried "by the policy of confrontation adopted by Indonesia against its neighbor. . . . "Canada will extend to Malaysia $4,000,000 in military air transport equipment and training facilities in Canada."

The UN General Assembly, Mr. Pearson was asked, has been unable to vote its 1965 budget for fear of forcing the issue of Article 19 on penalties for non-payment of arrears by some nations. As a former president of the UN, how do you view its future as a peace-keeping organization against the background of this issue and others, including last year's Congo crisis?

Mr. Pearson: "You should remember that the framers of the UN charter assumed that the great powers would have the primary responsibility for keeping the peace. In the light of the history of postwar disagreement between the great powers the UN has compiled a remarkable record of keeping

Flooding in Dakota Reduces Red Peak

WINNIPEG (CP)—Heavy flooding by the Red River in North Dakota will reduce the anticipated peak flows in Manitoba, Premier Roblin said today.

The premier said an overflow of water which created a lake 12 miles wide south of Drayton, N.D., would result in lower crests in this province.

Agriculture Minister George Hutton has said a delayed crest was a disadvantage because it meant a longer period in which there could be a heavy rainfall. The weather office said today there was no indication of significant precipitation within the next 36 hours.

GAS TANK TILTS

Town in Grip Of Fire Peril

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP)—A tilting storage tank laden with 107,000 gallons of gasoline added an awesome fire peril today to the woes of La Crosse, braced for the record crest sweeping down the Mississippi River Valley.

Prairies Shivering And White

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta and Saskatchewan shivered in below normal temperatures today and shuddered at the prospect of more cold and snow.

The temperature dropped to three degrees below zero early today at Fort McMurray, 250 miles northeast of Edmonton. Grande Prairie in the Peace River area reported six degrees.

Edmonton had 15 degrees and light snow. It was 18 in Calgary, 17 at Prince Albert and 26 in Regina.

Generally, temperatures were 20 to 25 degrees below normal. The weather office predicted continued cold weather and some snow.

Red China Warns Of 'Preparations'

17 KILLED

Terrorist Bomb Rips Bar

SAIGON (CP)—The loss of a U.S. Navy Skyraider over North Viet Nam and the explosion of a terrorist bomb today pushed the American casualty toll in the Viet Nam war higher as officials investigated a possible Communist attempt to capture Premier Phan Huy Quat.

A U.S. 7th Fleet spokesman said the Skyraider pilot was killed today when his propeller-driven aircraft crashed while making a pass over a group of trucks along Highway 1, about 50 miles north of the border.

Seventeen South Vietnamese were killed, 38 wounded and four American servicemen injured when a Communist Viet Cong bomb ripped through a bar at Ban Me Thuot, about 160 miles northeast of Saigon, Monday night.

The Viet Cong killed an American civilian and several South Vietnamese in an ambush of a construction crew on the Bien Hoa Highway just north of Saigon Monday night. He was an employee of the Hydro-technic Corporation, a private firm hired by the U.S. aid mission to install a new water line into the capital.

American and South Vietnamese planes continued their strikes against targets in North Viet Nam today, hitting bridges and roads in three separate raids.

GLAST GUERRILLAS

Forty U.S. jet bombers and fighter-bombers blasted fortified Viet Cong positions less than 30 miles south of the strategic Da Nang air base as a major clash between government troops and guerrillas continued.

Pilots of the U.S. planes—F-4 Phantoms, B-57 Canberra bombers and F-100 Super-Sabres—reported they knocked out one anti-aircraft gun emplacement, destroyed six buildings, caused secondary explosions and started large fires.

They also reported seeing Viet Cong trenches filled with bodies after the strike.

It was also disclosed that two South Vietnamese Air Force Skyraiders were shot down near the North Vietnamese city of Vinh, 150 miles inside the border.

MacMillan Threatened

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two young holdup men pushed lumber magnate H. R. MacMillan 75, into a closet today, then fled empty-handed from his palatial Vancouver home.

Police said the pair knocked on the door of the home and when he answered it in person, one of them waved a cleaver-type knife and demanded $136,000.

Mr. MacMillan told them he had no such amount of money in the house. He was pushed into a closet and the holdup men were frightened off by sounds in the house, apparently made by the cook.

Mr. MacMillan was apparently uninjured.

U.K. BACKS SOVIET CALL FOR PARLEY

LONDON (UPI)—Britain will back the Soviet Union's call for an international conference on the neutralization of Cambodia as a possible starting point for Viet Nam peace talks, diplomatic sources indicated today.

Britain has informed the Soviets that it is giving the proposal "careful study," it was reported. Sir Humphrey Trevelyan, the British ambassador in Moscow, met with Russian diplomats last weekend.

A formal decision was expected shortly, possibly by next week, after further soundings with interested nations.

Ex-Envoy Named

OTTAWA (UPI)—R. A. J. Phillips, 43, one-time Canadian diplomat in Moscow and wartime intelligence officer, has been named second in command of the government's war on poverty.

WIRE BRIEFS

Delegation Withdraws

Children Burned

STEPHENVILLE, N.D. (CP)—Two children died and five others are in hospital following a fire which destroyed a single-storey frame dwelling at nearby Kippens Monday.

Extend Winter Works

OTTAWA (CP)—The winter works incentive program will be extended a month to May 31 for projects delayed because of bad weather, the labor department announced today.

B.C. Man Victim

TERRACE BAY, Ont. (AP)—J. Elzear Dallaire, 61, of B.C. was the second victim of a passenger train derailment near this northwestern Ontario community Saturday, police said today.

Troops Readied If War Grows

TOKYO (AP)—China called today for "full preparations" to send Chinese troops into the Vietnamese war if the United States escalates the fighting and the Vietnamese people call for help.

A Peking broadcast said the standing committee of the National Peoples Congress (parliament) ordered the preparations in the form of a resolution adopted unanimously this afternoon.

"In the name of the 650,000,000 Chinese people," the resolution said, "the standing committee of the National Peoples Congress of China today solemnly passed a resolution calling on the People's organizations and their people throughout China to make full preparations to send their own people to fight together with the Vietnamese people and drive out the U.S. aggressors in the event that U.S. imperialism continues to escalate its war of aggression and the Vietnamese people need them."

The legislative body is empowered to decide on the proclamation of a state of war.

"The Chinese government and the Chinese people have solemnly declared that aggression by U.S. imperialism against the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam means aggression against China."

The Chinese expressed support for North Vietnamese appeal which called, among other things, for a halt in U.S. air strikes on North Viet Nam and the withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Viet Nam.

"We maintain that the necessary conditions for a political settlement of the Viet Nam problem can be created only by . . . forcing the United States to withdraw all its armed forces from Viet Nam," the resolution said.

North Viet, U.S. Refuse To Budge

TOKYO (AP)—North Viet Nam and the United States are standing pat on their conditions for peace in Viet Nam. Each says the other must get out of South Viet Nam.

North Viet Nam Monday rejected an appeal by 17 non-aligned nations for unconditional talks on Viet Nam, listing "withdrawal of foreign military personnel" as one of four conditions for any settlement.

State Secretary Dean Rusk in turn said North Viet Nam must declare it is prepared to "stop sending arms and men over the border."

"If that point is taken care of, then other things could begin to happen speedily."

The North Vietnamese statement, broadcast by the official North Viet Nam news agency, also ruled out any mediation by the United Nations as "inappropriate" and contrary to the 1954 Geneva agreement which partitioned Viet Nam.

The statement had been awaited in Washington as the key to the Hanoi regime's position on President Johnson's April 7 offer for "unconditional discussions" as well as on the appeal signed April 1 by the 17 non-aligned nations in Belgrade.

MADE FOUR DEMANDS

The Hanoi broadcast called for:

1. Recognition of basic national rights of the Vietnamese people.

2. Withdrawal of foreign military personnel in accord with the 1954 Geneva agreement on Viet Nam.

3. Settlement of South Viet Nam's internal affairs "in accordance with the program" of the Communist Viet Cong.

4. Peaceful reunification of Viet Nam "without any foreign interference."

In Washington, Rusk said: "What is missing in the Vietnamese four points is a declaration that they are prepared to stop sending arms and men over the border and that is the key to the matter."

U.S. officials previously said that under the North Vietnamese formula the United States would have to pull out of South Viet Nam, leaving the Saigon government to contend alone with continued North Vietnamese aggression. The result would be to deliver South Viet Nam to the Communists, they said.

TEEN-AGER, CHILD UNCONSCIOUS

All Families Can Do Is Wait

VANCOUVER (CP)—A teen-ager girl and a little boy lie unconscious in hospitals 400 miles apart today, attended round the clock in the hope they will wake up.

Marlene Christine Horan, 15, has been in a coma since March 23, when she was hurt in a car crash 30 miles from her Prince Rupert home. She has opened her eyes and moved her limbs, but has given no sign of recognition.

Members of her family take turns at her bedside.

At Chilliwack in the Fraser Valley, six-year-old John Frederick Kloot has been motionless and unconscious since the Good Friday accident that killed his brother Bert, 7. They were both hit by a car when they tried to cross a road.

Special nurses have been on duty constantly and his parents have made frequent visits. John has a broken neck, two fractures of the jaw and other head injuries.

Said Mrs. Kloot: "At first doctors said they could give us no hope—but now we have been told he could wake up in a month or two."

Said Mrs. Horan, the girl's mother, said today: "The doctors have given us no reason for hope or for despair."

Ottawa Studies Move to Keep Papers Under Canadian Control

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Canadian government has in mind preventing wealthy non-Canadians from acquiring ownership of Canadian newspapers or groups of newspapers, by a measure that would make it impracticable for companies to advertise in such publications, it was learned here today.

Under the proposed government action a businessman or company advertising in a non-Canadian controlled newspaper or magazine would be prevented from charging, as an expense for tax purposes, the cost of the advertisement in the foreign controlled publication.

The government a year ago was proposing such measures to protect Canadian magazines from competition from American-owned periodicals. However, it held back because of criticism and re-examination of the situation and there are suggestions now from informed sources that it will widen the proposal to include newspapers and by such action it may get through parliament the protective legislation which originally just applied to magazines.

There have been representations from certain large eastern Canadian newspapers to the government for action to prevent American capitalists from acquiring control of large Canadian newspapers or groups of newspapers.

Over the Easter weekend, FP Publications' general manager Richard S. Malone, announced that the group of newspapers was taking steps to "ensure that control of its various newspaper properties in Canada shall remain in Canadian hands." FP has applied to the secretary of state for supplementary letters patent approving bylaws which will restrict the transfer of the company's voting shares to Canadian citizens resident in Can-

GRADE SCHOOL REFORM ADVOCATED BY TEACHER

VANCOUVER (CP) The president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation Monday called for drastic reforms in elementary education in B.C.

Mrs. Isobel Cull said the elementary schools are the "forgotten half" of the school system. There had been major reorganization of the secondary curriculum but little change in the elementary schools.

Mrs. Cull was speaking to the opening session of the 40th annual convention of the federation. Almost 1,200 delegates representing 15,000 B.C. teachers are attending the three-day meeting.

Mrs. Cull said the elementary teachers' responsibility is to instill in each child "the joy of learning and a delight in the world around him, and to create a learning situation—so each one can proceed at his own rate, for learning is a personal and a many splendored thing."

She said this is impossible in classes of 30 or more. "In a classroom measuring 24 by 32 feet."

"This is impossible when success is measured in good handwriting, accurate spelling, tidy notebooks, conformity and good marks on written tests."

Spears Had Record Of Evading Capture

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — Hunting for Russell Spears was no job for amateurs.

That was recalled here after Spears, charged with capital murder in the fatal wounding of an RCMP constable, killed himself after being cornered near Kelowna, B.C., Monday.

He had been the object of a hunt since he wounded Const. Neil Bruce—who died Wednesday—and 17-year-old Beverly Charest April 10.

In 1947 while facing a charge of assaulting a woman, armed, Spears escaped from the jail here.

He made his way to the SYL Ranch area, south of here, and lived for a month in bush country in a cabin he built and comfortably furnished himself.

The hideout was discovered by a Christmas tree cutter and police were called. They hid in the cabin while Spears was out.

Spears, returning from a food foraging expedition, instinctively suspected something was wrong and riddled the walls with rifle shots, wounding one officer, before fleeing into the bush.

'SHOOT TO KILL'

He had told a friend earlier: "I'll shoot to kill first or I'll go under the sod."

Police and army personnel combed the hills for Spears for three weeks. Then police staked out a hut on an Indian reserve that had apparently been built by Spears. Spears was shot as he approached the cabin.

HOME GARDEN

Unsprouted Tubers Overtake Sprouted

By JACK BEASTALL
It is all very well to put potato tubers in a box and have them produce green sprouts, but what about roots?

The originator of the idea is unknown, but it was done in a climate quite different from that of South America where the potato had its home.

The purpose of "sprouting" was to have the plants well advanced by the time weather conditions were suitable for planting outdoors, thus ensuring a reasonable crop in a relatively short and cool growing season.

SECONDARY
It is unfortunate the practice became known as "sprouting" for originally it was roots the gardener encouraged and the sprouts were a secondary matter which was inevitable.

To obtain good roots the tubers, complete or cut into pieces, were placed in holes made in the centre of squares of meadow sod.

Rich soil was packed around the tuber (or pieces of tuber) to fill the hole and thinly cover the top cluster of eyes, for in those days only the top eyes were considered of use.

The boxes containing the sods and the tubers were placed, in the peach-house, vinery, or under the staging in the stove-house (heated greenhouse) until both season and plants were sufficiently advanced for transfer to coldframes.

Regular watering was given, and by the time the sprouts appeared the roots were already delving deeply into the sod.

It is no coincidence that unsprouted tubers overtake their sprouted but unrooted counterparts when planted in the garden on the same day. The unsprouted make roots before sprouts, which is the correct thing for respectable tubers to do.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Under clear skies, temperatures dipped to well below zero in northern B.C. early this morning. Smith River was coldest with a reading of 9 below followed by Fort Nelson with 5 below. Snowflurries will continue today in the northern interior near the southern boundary of the Arctic air which has reached a line through Smithers and Williams Lake. A storm centre near northern Vancouver Island will maintain a southerly flow of mild moist air over the remainder of the province today and Wednesday.

PEARSON VIET NAM COMMITMENT FEARED

International Control Commission, another question asked, to supervise the 1954 Geneva agreements. What is your opinion of the usefulness and effectiveness of this commission at the present time?

The commission in Viet Nam, Mr. Pearson said, was to supervise the 1954 cease-fire between France and the so-called People's Army of Viet Nam. On the whole it performed effectively although it was not able to prevent the military build-up in North Viet Nam nor to ensure democratic freedoms to the People of North and South Viet Nam.

When war broke out the commission was "no longer supervising a cease-fire between two parties who were prepared to observe the provisions of the agreement; it was on the contrary attempting to maintain peace when one party—North Viet Nam—had deliberately embarked upon a policy of aggression against its neighbor."

Mr. Pearson, therefore, did not think the commission should be "judged too harshly because it has been placed in a situation with which it was not designed to cope."

Queries Criticisms

The final question noted that while there seem to be no outstanding problems between the U.S. and Canadian governments at the present time, there have been criticisms by Canadians of U.S. policies in Viet Nam, and by Americans of such things as Canadian trade with Cuba and Red China.

"Will you comment on the present state of Canadian-U.S. relations, whether they are improving or deteriorating or whether they have been hurt by such issues as Viet Nam, China and Cuba?"

Mr. Pearson: "They are close and friendly and I am sure will continue that way. But they are never easy. They are too important—especially for Canada—to be easy. They should never be taken for granted."

Canadians were concerned about everything the U.S. does because they were affected by it and often involved."

"So we give good advice and strong support and—on occasions—honest disagreement. But we try to understand the world responsibilities of the United States and appreciate the burdens it is carrying, even when we disagree with some aspects of U.S. policy."

The "essence" of the relationship is that "we can disagree and remain good neighbors, close friends and loyal allies."

France to Cut SEATO Ties

By HAROLD KING

PARIS (Reuters) — France may shortly sever its ties with the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization—the eight-nation Western defence pact in the Far East, reliable sources said in Paris today.

As a first step Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville will not attend the annual SEATO ministerial conference in London which begins a three-day session May 3.

(France has told the SEATO secretariat in Bangkok it intends to downgrade its delegation to the London conference to observer status, reliable sources said.)

The French decision is said here to reflect President de Gaulle's desire to dissociate France step by step from any commitment in a possible war in Viet Nam.

Nearly two years ago de Gaulle expressed fears the United States might get into a real war in Viet Nam. Since then France has backed a policy of neutralization for South Viet Nam.

France's recognition of Communist China a year ago was a major step toward an independent French policy in Asia.

CLASHED WITH MEMBERS

The French foreign minister insisted on the insertion of a French reservation over Viet Nam in the communiqué issued after the three-day meeting.

Diplomats in Paris believe President Johnson may be seeking SEATO approval at the London conference for his offer of unconditional talks on a Viet Nam peace settlement, coupled with a $1,000,000,000 economic aid plan for Southeast Asia.

According to the diplomats, the Americans already have prepared a draft resolution for meeting. Under it all SEATO members would agree to support or even to participate in the aid plan.

The French government's view is that the aid plan is an integral part of U.S. policy in Viet Nam and to support it strategy in Viet Nam with which

Do you own
that much life insurance?

For a man earning $6,000 a year that means life insurance of $30,000. Sounds like quite enough. But the years have a way of spreading it thin.

How would $30,000 provide for your widow? As income it could mean $200 a month—if she is elderly. For the young widow, insurance of $30,000 means a life income of about $100 a month.

Where children are concerned, or there is a mortgage, additional insurance money would be required. So you see, even five times a man's annual salary is merely basic insurance coverage. Yet the life insurance carried by many Canadians falls far short of this mark.

There is a simple means of acquiring the insurance coverage your family requires. It's the Noremco Plan. This way you can afford adequate insurance coverage because you budget for it. ## VIET BOMBINGS

Democrat
Now Calls
For Pause

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator J. W. Fulbright's call for a pause in the U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam appears to reflect rising apprehension in Congress over the course of the Southeast Asian war.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, caused some high-level criticism with his suggestion for a temporary cessation in air raids as a possible avenue toward peace talks. Both State Secretary Rusk and Defence Secretary McNamara opposed any interruption in the bombing.

But Fulbright's general attitude toward the Viet Nam situation is shared by a substantial number of his colleagues who have supported President Johnson's course in escalating the hostilities with some misgivings.

The influential members of this group — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana is among them — are convinced that the war will only be ended by negotiations and are deeply disturbed lest the road be closed to such talks.

REJECT APPEAL

They have not been encouraged by Communist reaction to the president's statement in his April 7 Baltimore speech that he was willing to negotiate without fixing pre-conditions. North Viet Nam Monday rejected an appeal from 17 non-aligned nations for such negotiations. It also refused mediation by the United Nations.

Because they hesitate to be placed in the position of questioning the president's judgment in a grave and continuingly critical situation, influential Democrats generally have kept their worries to themselves and have maintained public silence.

This has left public defence of the president's acceleration of the conflict to Republicans like Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen. Dirksen specifically opposed Fulbright's suggestion for a temporary halt in bombings, saying "we have to hold their feet to the fire."

But the silence of so many Democrats in the face of a barrage of attacks on his policies by Senators Wayne Morse of Oregon and Ernest Gruening of Alaska obviously does not please Johnson.

Japan Press
Supports
Bomb Pause

TOKYO (Reuters) — Three leading Japanese national newspapers called for peace through negotiations in Viet Nam, rather than an escalation of the war.

They said suspension of U.S. bombings of North Viet Nam would pave the way for such negotiations.

The Asahi Shimbun said a joint communique issued by Russia and North Viet Nam in Moscow Sunday was believed to be ultimately designed to end the war through negotiations.

The paper urged the U.S. to respect the very existence of the Viet Cong guerrillas.

It said, however, the Communists' claim that the Viet Cong were the sole representatives of South Viet Nam was unrealistic and they were closing the way for negotiations if they continued to stick to this claim.

The Yomiuri Shimbun said: "Does Washington truly believe that a mailed fist can bludgeon open doors to an honorable negotiation, or is the U.S. merely offering a sop to Asian opinion in the form of 'unconditional talks' and Southeast Asia aid programs only to justify the air attacks?"

The Yomiuri said: "Whatever the rhetorical flourishes, the bombing of North Viet Nam cannot be justified. To continue these attacks will never create the diplomatic climate for talks."

The Mainichi Shimbun said it was about time for the U.S. to change its military escalation to diplomatic escalation.

Ninety-two Japanese scholars and novelists urged the government to appeal to the U.S. to call off the bombing of North Viet Nam.

Calling the bombing "an abuse of the rights of the self-defence," the appeal said: "The aid from the north has been more of a counter-balance to the enormous amount of military aid offered by the United States to the South Vietnamese government."

More Goods
For Consumer

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Kosygin has promised more consumer goods in the next five-year plan and indicated factory directors may no longer have to borrow trucks to go on business trips.

Kosygin made the remarks in a closed meeting of the state planning committee and they were reported in the latest issue of the magazine Planned Economy.

Without mentioning him by name, Kosygin ridiculed the dislike of his predecessor, Nikita Khrushchev, for passenger cars for the masses.

"Everyone was expected to ride in buses," he scoffed.

Kosygin told planning officials the 1966-70 plan, now being worked out, should be drafted to "ensure a more rapid rate of improvement of the people's living standards."

The new plan will carry forward reforms aimed at boosting output of consumer goods, already decreed last December within two months of Khrushchev's removal as premier.

Kosygin called for a reversal of two policies championed by Khrushchev — a five-year-long virtual salary freeze which kept earnings artificially depressed in favor of social services, and a cut on private car production.

Kosygin said salaries should be in direct relationship to increases in productivity.

He called for a brisker house building program to end a situation where half of Russia's city dwellers live in shared apartments with communal kitchens.

Calling for increased car production, Kosygin said even fac-

A Snag in the Tightrope

ECONOMISTS LOOKING AT import-export figures for the first two months of the year along with other indicators of business in Canada and abroad, say that 1965 will produce a heavy deficit in this year's balance-of-trade account.

The reason is not difficult to see. Some of Canada's best trade customers are having their own payments problems and will not be buying any more goods than absolutely necessary. At the same time Canada is ready to step up its capital investment program with an estimated increase of 14 per cent over last year and will probably need to import more capital goods, particularly from the United States.

Preliminary projections indicate that Canada's surplus in merchandise trade this year might drop to about $700 millions compared with $800 millions last year.

Exports are expected to rise by between five and six per cent to about $8.7 billions but imports are expected to increase by seven or eight per cent to $8.8 billions. This narrowing of the merchandise account will be accompanied by an increase in non-merchandise items and could result in a current account deficit of $800 millions compared with $453 millions last year.

What this means is that Canada is going to have to borrow $800 millions — one economist says it could be $1 billion — in foreign markets to cover the deficit. This would be substantially beyond the borrowing needed in recent years, although still short of the record $1.5 billions in capital which Canada imported in 1959.

There is little doubt that the funds can be found, mostly in the United States, even though President Johnson is attempting to restrict the outflow of American dollars in order to straighten out the United States balance of payments problems. The difficulty is, though, that borrowing on this scale and at current higher interest rates almost guarantees building into the Canadian economy higher costs which work against the goal of increasing Canadian exports.

This factor, along with a slow but sure increase in the prices of a number of basic commodities in recent months as well as a strong demand for higher wages in Canada, is eroding the competitive position of Canadian producers in foreign markets in exactly the way which Mr. Louis Rasminsky, Governor of the Bank of Canada, warned a few weeks ago must not be allowed to happen.

The Conservative government almost four years ago gave Canada's export trade a strong boost when the Canadian dollar was devalued. The rising imports figures for last year and the first two months of this year show that the country is beginning to pay the price which devaluation was ultimately to demand.

The initial thrust of booming exports has slowed while the prosperity brought about by strong overseas sales has resulted in heavy demand for imported capital and consumer goods which now cost more in terms of the lower-priced Canadian dollar. With a $12.3 billions capital investment program projected for this year adding to an already heated-up economy, the task of holding down prices and keeping Canadian industry competitive in world markets will need serious attention.

Government's Role In Education

MR. ALVIN HAMILTON, WHO served as agriculture minister in the Diefenbaker government, urged here last weekend that the federal government should undertake massive financial aid to Canadian universities in order to free them of reliance on provincial governments. He hinted that this concept might be a plank in the Conservative campaign for the next general election.

The idea has a germ of merit. It is essential to any educational institution that it be free of political or policy influence from governments — and this applies to federal as well as provincial interference.

Under our system of support for education through public financing, however, government must exert some control over expenditures. The principles of disbursement of public money demand at least a formal voice for the taxpayers' representatives. But at that point governmental control should cease. The curricula, and the facilities and means by which the curricula are offered to students, must remain the responsibility of the university authorities. And government should, in fact, lean heavily on the advice of these bodies when considering university budget requests.

In British Columbia, the provincial government is supplying operating funds at a pace well behind the rapidly increasing needs of the universities. Each year desirable projects, classes, study or research facilities must be cut back to enable the universities to operate within their restricted budgets. Under some circumstances this might be a feasible method of financing; but under the almost emergency conditions which prevail in this province's higher education, the penny-pinching approach could have disastrous and long-lasting effects.

In such a situation, an appeal for federal funds for higher education will naturally evoke a response from universities and public. But this does not provide a whole answer, for the same taxpayer is the source of both federal funds and provincial funds. Except where there is some particular concern — such as research on a national project, or an attempt to meet a national need in some profession — university education might as well be left in provincial hands where the BNA act put it. But this presupposes that the provincial governments will accept their full responsibility and meet the operating needs of the universities in the manner which the situation demands.

Where a province is economically unable to meet such requirements, then equalizing federal assistance might well be called for. But no one can say that British Columbia falls in this latter category. There can be no excuse in this province for curtailed educational programs and curtailed opportunities for our youth.

Wild Blue Yonder

THE RECENT FLURRY OF speculation as to whether Russian scientists had detected a signal from space which indicated some intelligent control has died down. A too enthusiastic journalistic response to very tentative evidence apparently carried the incident far beyond the scientists' intent.

But the likelihood remains that sooner or later some such announcement will be made. Earthlings will pick up signals of some sort from space which indicate beyond doubt that a mind has directed them toward us. When that day comes — and it may be many centuries ahead — the earth will be faced with a vital question.

Shall the globe's human beings reveal their presence to living creatures which may be able — and disposed — to wipe out our population? Or shall earth's inhabitants remain silent, play safe, and perhaps lose an unimaginably precious opportunity to establish contact with other beings in the universe?

It will be a tremendous question to answer. And of one thing we may be sure. Even the hint of a force from outside our world which could harm our earth's inhabitants would be sufficient to bring all the nations, races and ideologies together for the common defence of the planet. As divided nations have been unified and strengthened by pressure from neighbors, so earthlings would abandon their intra-planetary disputes and squabbles and combine to present a united face to a potential enemy. A little scare might do us a world of good.

OTTAWA'S B AND B TUFF

Why Not Research the Researchers?

By MAURICE WESTERN

IT is unfortunate that the Easter recess should be marred by the regrettable disagreement between the prime minister, Mr. Diefenbaker, Mr. Herd and various disgruntled members on the one hand and the indignant B and B commissioners on the other. At issue is a questionnaire designed to penetrate the deeper thoughts of members of Parliament. According to Mr. Dunton and Mr. Laurendeau, it is a valuable research tool. According to our most eminent parliamentary leaders, the questions — or some of them — are snooping, irrelevant, highly inappropriate and impertinent.

As the commissioners have pointed out, there is a misunderstanding here. It is important to avoid recriminations and to seek a meeting of minds. We may begin with the encouraging fact that the commissioners have already achieved some success by bringing Mr. Pearson, Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Herd together in unaccustomed amity and comradeship on this interesting issue.

Unending Jobs

There has probably been too little realization by members of the part which the commission is playing in the promotion of full employment in Canada. This becomes more evident from a study of the controversial survey consisting of 30 questions, each of which may be answered in one of four ways. It is conceded that some, taken separately, may appear irrelevant. "But we believe," state the commissioners, "that taken together the responses can be highly relevant in discovering patterns of differences or similarities in attitudes of members of different language groups." The patterns are what counts.

No one can justly contend that the commission is shirking its work. This correspondent, on the authority of a qualified Shoal Lake mathematician, is able to report that the number of possible combinations of answers here is 1,133,000,000,000,000. The commission will naturally be eager to explore the bicentennial significance of each of these so that it will be in a position to evaluate the 255 patterns likely to be encountered if the members co-operate.

Follow-Up Needed

Nor is this all. Although the survey is based "on recent but thoroughly tested techniques of social science research," it will obviously require a follow-up. So much, it seems to me, is apparent from the statement issued by the co-chairmen. "To carry out its mandate properly, the commission cannot be content with just superficial inquiries but must endeavour to investigate below the surface, using well developed, carefully worked out and appropriate methods."

A single example will illustrate the problem. We may find, for example, that member X is persuaded (A) that "backbenchers receive far too few invitations to air their views in public" and (B) that "the Quebec MP tends to be more concerned with looking after his constituents than with national policies."

It would clearly be dangerous, however, to draw premature conclusions as to the bicentennial significance of this conjunction of views. Investigation below the surface by the above-mentioned methods might, for example, disclose the disturbing fact that member X holds a similar opinion of his brother legislators from Saskatchewan.

Enough has been said to indicate the magnitude of the problem. There seems to be an excellent prospect that the B and B Commission will become one of the permanent institutions of our public life, opening undreamed of career opportunities to all the social scientists our universities can produce.

MPs Have Case

The commission should realize, however, that MPs also have a case. They have their traditions to uphold and they are naturally inclined to resent a survey which, by its form, denies them one of the most cherished rights of a member: that of being on both sides of a question at the same time.

With goodwill on both sides, an accommodation between the commission and the Commons ought not to be impossible. As a fair concession, the commissioners might very well agree to submit themselves to a similar questionnaire worked out by Members of Parliament. There is no reason why they should shrink from such an experience given the protective ground rule that "responses are kept strictly confidential" and the knowledge that what counts is the "tabulation of all responses in an integrated research design."

Much valuable time could be saved by the simple method of re-wording some of the present questions. For example:

"A commissioner can tell most of the time what Canadians will think about an issue before he even asks them."

Again: "Commissioners, in view of the demands made upon them are chronically underpaid."

Again: "Most new commissioners learn more by keeping their mouths shut than by trying to prove how smart they are."

Or again: "Commissioneering is a dirty game."

Some of the questions may not lend themselves to this ready adaptation. It should not be difficult, however, to find appropriate substitutions. The task might well be turned over to the group of Members (known affectionately to their colleagues as "hatchmen") who contribute so much to the temper of the House. One thinks, for example, of Mr. Nielsen, Mr. Greene and Mr. Howard, representing respectively the Conservative, Liberal and New Democratic parties.

Mutually Rewarding

Such an enterprise should be rewarding to both sides. It would enable Members to employ techniques of social science research thoroughly tested in Parliament and in the House of Commons coffee shop. It would, no doubt, be helpful to the commissioners, who would be able to look through the eyes of the psycho-analyst at the psycho-analysts. It would at least be interesting as the first integrated research design executed on a Royal Commission by Members of Parliament and it might go some way towards dissipating the unhappy misunderstandings now dividing the ruffled commissioners from the people's puzzled representatives.

PROFIT TO OIL THE WHEELS

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

Libermanism and the Fading Stogie

THE Liberman movement, the injection of the profit motive into the Soviet economy, is now catching on in East Europe. Not everywhere. In Bulgaria and Romania Professor Liberman's ideas are still ignored. Bulgaria has always been the gummiest of the "People's Democracies," apart from Herr Ulbricht's satrapy; the Communist Government of Romania, in spite of its spirited challenge to Moscow, has never carried its own experimental attitude to foreign policy into the domestic field.

But in Hungary and Czechoslovakia, to a lesser degree in Poland (though Polish economists were playing with Professor Liberman's ideas before he publicly enunciated them two years ago) a great deal is being said and written about the need to make profitability the main index of productive efficiency, and, as a corollary of that, the granting of a measure of independence to directors of factories and trusts so that they can organize their production to meet popular demand.

It is still not clear how much is actually being done. In the Soviet Union the new government has given the go-ahead to some 400 clothing factories to put the new system into practice, in what amounts to a pilot scheme. We have no corresponding figures for Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland; but it is from the public discussions and lectures in these countries that we can learn more about Libermanism than from the Soviet Union itself.

Their economists have found a useful formula which makes respectable the whole change of emphasis from rigid, detailed central control of each factory's output to an attempt to operate flexibly in accordance with the law of supply and demand. In Russia, Libermanism is still being spoken of as an experiment. In Hungary and Czechoslovakia (the term Libermanism is not used) it is rapidly becoming a dogma — though still one to be argued and defended against opponents, unspecified. The formula expressing this dogma is that Socialist industry is changing over from extensive to intensive development.

Now, Quality

Extensive development was the feature of the period in which the measuring stick of industrial production was quantity; intensive development is concerned with quality. And in discussing the need for quality and for satisfying the demands of the consumer some very revealing things are being said about the muddled state of affairs existing hitherto. A recent article in an important Hungarian paper put the thing in a nutshell when, arguing the validity, indeed the necessity, of the profit motive, it said in effect that it had always operated even in the days of most rigid control, but that in the past factory directors often found it more profitable to produce goods that nobody wanted than to attempt to supply popular demand.

That is to say, if they produced what the state told them to produce, even if the quality was poor and the goods unwanted, they were assured of their bread and butter; if they tried to use their heads to produce what people wanted, they were sacked.

Inferior Managers

The chief, the apparently unexpected obstacle to the application of Libermanism is turning out to be the inefficiency of the majority of factory managers. This has been discovered in the Soviet Union, too, but it is being talked about far more openly elsewhere, especially in Czechoslovakia.

Czechoslovakia was once upon a time an advanced industrial country. What is now being revealed about the quality of

Against Fluoridation

Your editorial of April 7, "Oak Bay and Fluoridation" appears to be very one-sided.

To my knowledge fluoridation of water supplies is the biggest controversy in the world, because it is mass medication, and any forced measure that is encroaching on civil rights is not for a democratic country.

One man claims (Oak Bay alderman) fluoridation is harmful to none and of great value to all.

The well educated people (not Oak Bay) that made full research and study of fluoridation, are not for it. And a guarantee of safety has never been given to the public by the servants of health boards that endorse and support fluoridation.

Until such time as fluoridation is scientifically proven safe and the health boards that promote it can give an absolute guarantee of safety to all the people they serve, I will be against it, and in all fairness to the people you serve they should have both sides of the story. — Mrs. Diana Caucutt, 207 - 8th Ave. So., Kenora, Ontario.

Highland Mary

Mr. Morton referred recently to the Burns' statue in Beacon Hill Park as being rather a poor memorial owing to the fact we have a Burns' Club in the city.

The Burns Club cannot take credit for this statue as it was erected by the Sir William Wallace Society which was the first Scottish Society in Victoria, with a membership of only 50.

The statue was unveiled on November 10, 1900. Later when the society disbanded this statue was given in custody to the city.

Perhaps instead of viewing it with a critical eye we should look on it with gratitude, for never was much done by so few for Burns or any other poet. According to information in the Provincial Archives each bronze figure cost $600, the pedestal $400, plus freight from Britain, also duty which was paid by a benevolent lady in this city. The statue is unique as it depicts a scene from one of Burns' lovely poems "Highland Mary".

It was in true Scottish tradition, not only useful but ornamental, being the only place where, at one time one could quench one's thirst, though of course the fountain is now no longer in use. — Mrs. Angus McKay, President Burns Club, 1956-1958.

Mr. Lippmann's Altered View

It is quiet evident that Mr. Walter Lippmann isn't going along with the conventional wisdom in Washington with respect to the Vietnamese war. Yet when the U.S. position in Viet Nam is viewed as a holding operation, as part of a policy of containment of the aggressive brand of Chinese communism, it is difficult to overlook some of Mr. Lippmann's own previous pronouncements on such matters.

A few years ago he came back from the Far East promoting, for all sides so concerned, a policy of containment in dealing with Red China, a country which would, in his view, inevitably and ruthlessly assert the historical imperial ambitions of the Chinese nation.

Now that Washington appears to be applying the containment doctrine in full measure in Viet Nam Mr. Lippmann is backtracking and wants the U.S. to withdraw. In the present circumstances this hardly seems a likely course of action, nor a prudent one. This would also appear to be the thinking in England of Prime Minister Wilson's Labor Government. — Trade Unionist.

Special Talent

In the words of a writer in Svobodno Slovo, echoing certain Soviet colleagues, "the art of management requires a special talent, for the full exercise of which the manager must possess the necessary psychological and organizational qualifications, in addition to other talents."

How to find such managers, how to train them? The same writer announces that "management is about to become a specific profession." More stratification?

It is not only managers who are faulty. Technicians have also been jumped up simply because they were loyal proletarians. "Only about one in 10 of our technical engineers have a university education and only half of them have a secondary education; only some 10 per cent of the people holding appointments as technicians and engineers have the technical training required for these important jobs."

In the Land of Skoda

This in the land of Skoda . . . It has all got to change, and quickly. And in Hungary, too. The theoreticians are trying themselves up in knots trying to find formulas for the sort of management that demands political reliability and the sort that does not.

But this, one feels is largely lip-service. More exacting consumer demand is calling for efficiency first, and it is clear that the days of the political stooge in Communist industry are numbered.

Looking Back

From The Times of April 20, 1890:

Ottawa — The annual fisheries report shows the value of the catch landed in Canada last year was $17.6 million, up $236,000 from the previous year. The increase includes $1.4 million in British Columbia. Total value of the catch landed in B.C. was $2.3 million, compared with $3 million for New Brunswick and $6.3 million for Nova Scotia. An unprecedented run of salmon in the Fraser River produced 13.7 million pounds. Since it is scarcely possible to maintain this catch, the number of licenses has been limited to 500.

Gerald Waring CANADA'S WATER-1

PORTLAND, Ore.—There's a new word to describe the $100 billion plan to divert surplus Canadian and Alaskan water to areas of increasingly serious water shortage in the western states.

Mary Poppins made it part of the English language.

It's supercalifragilisticexpialdocios.

But it doesn't necessarily follow that the Ralph M. Parsons Company concept of water as a continental resource, to be siphoned out of Canada for the prime benefit of the United States, is super-etc., etc., so far as Canada is concerned.

National Resources Minister Arthur Laing made this clear at the Northwest Pacific Trade Association conference here last week on "Water, the Ultimate Resource."

Canada would approach the Parsons' concept with "enormous caution," he said, because water "is all of Canada's future. We would not even consider exporting any water until it was unmistakably shown it was surplus to Canada's requirements for all time." Moreover, Mr. Laing added, "If Canadian waters are to be shared with our neighbors, there must be a commensurate reverse flow of benefits towards our Canadian economy."

The conference was impressed by the grand concept of reshaping the water drainage systems of the continent from Alaska to Lower California to Labrador. Engineers admitted its physical practicability. And the need is undeniable. Rich, populous and politically strong California is prepared to pay any amount necessary to get out-of-state water. Meanwhile, if experiments with desalting sea water, with sealing off the Los Angeles waterfront to prevent salt water seeping into wells, and with circulating and purifying water for reuse.

The squeeze is on Oregon and Washington to part with their surplus water, and they haven't got enough of what Oregon's Governor Mark Hatfield called "political muscle" to make a denial stick.

Canada has. But at what cost? As Mr. Laing admitted, we can't stand idly by and let a huge area of our friendly and powerful neighbor wither from thirst while Canadian rivers dump their precious water unused into the sea. We are too dependent on the U.S. politically and economically to take a dog-in-the-manger attitude.

But North American dependence is a two-way street. The U.S. is becoming increasingly dependent on Canada for many raw and semi-processed materials as the Americans deplete their own supplies. Water is only the latest and greatest of U.S. deficiencies that Canada is able to make up.

Every time the U.S. has to turn to Canada for iron ore, uranium, nickel, asbestos, gas, electricity and now water—we become stronger economically and politically. We can grant or refuse. We can increasingly dictate terms. We may increase the content of Canadian labor and technology we require to be put into a resource before it may be exported. Last year B.C. sold $210 millions of lumber to the U.S. with an 18 per cent labor content—but only $39,000 worth of plywood with a 29 per cent labor content.

We are heading into a period of negotiations with the U.S. over water that will pale anything hitherto. We have nothing to fear but our own stupidity. And we have nothing to lose except that which, next to people and soil, is our most valuable resource.

And the Chorus of Frogs

THE young man who has recently acquired a tape recorder slipped quietly out of the cottage next door into the night of Cigar-makers' Bay. Pat, following the path, almost stumbled on him and asked what he was doing. His reply was factual: "Recording the frogs."

Stott

The next day he carried his equipment to a clean-up fire to catch the crackle, hiss and sputter of leaves and fir twigs being consumed by flames.

Perhaps he will keep the tape to play back in later years and remember the sounds and music of boyhood in a Shawanigan spring.

In the rolling change of the years ahead, it may be necessary to have such recordings to refresh aging memories, though I think the frogs will still join in nightly chorus and a bonfire will continue to create its own mutterings. But the changes that have come to the lake in the last quarter century probably justify the insurance of a taped record of familiar sounds.

We used to open up the cabin for the season at Easter, making of the event an adventure. Now the shack has grown a little and, apart from times of heavy snow or power failure, is visited regularly during the fall and winter.

It is more comfortable now. An oil burner, once lit, gives continuous heat. The flick of a switch provides light and juice for the electrical appliances. Given a little luck and revived memory on the part of a gentleman who has agreed to check and hook up the second-hand pump I bought, we should have running water this week. Then, I suppose, will come an automatic heater and city living will virtually have moved in.

This is all part of what we call progress—and in the softening process of age, seems desirable to me. Anyhow, I have to keep up with the neighbors, society being what it is and the Chic Sales culture retreating further back into folk literature.

And yet—

There was a primitive appeal in the old one-room shack that was the original unit of our construction at Shawanigan. We started with a coal-oil lamp that was the gift of one friend. In the evening its yellow light gave warmth to the shipap and open "tudding that, with Ed

Williams' help, I bought at contractor's prices. Windows had come from Jack Arundel's wrecker's yard and the sewer pipe "T" that was my chimney, resting on an outside bracket, was a donation from Walter Luney.

The door of the shack was a relic of Victoria's more boisterous days and taken from a building which a moralizing city thought should no longer be used for the purposes to which its flimsy tenants had converted it. Without a door, they could not carry on clandestine operations.

Furniture was a discarded kitchen table from home, a couple of old and rickety chairs and two plank benches. A brown metal bed, equipped with a reasonably good fire-sale mattress, occupied one corner, a child's cot next to it and in another corner cage-like arrangements for the twins.

The stove, which came to us in a long series of discards, rested on blocks of wood to raise it to waist level and water-mix metal cement kept the firebox in reasonably safe condition. Water was packed in buckets, placed on a bracket shelf outside one window and ladled in to a pan on a small work bench.

When Dick Freeman gave us an old Coleman gas lamp, with mantles, we thought we had arrived—though lighting it was an outdoor chore just in case it blew up.

Shawnigan then was "country." You walked down a path between trees whose branches covered you overhead and between reaching salal that wet your legs to the knees in rainy weather.

At Easter we'd go up to see if trees had fallen across the shack, if the shack itself had fallen down, or if grouse had bulleted through the windows. And we'd light our clean-up fires and gaze into their embers as they burned down.

On the Sunday the youngsters would hold an Easter-egg hunt and later gather trilliums for the table.

The small stove glowed red hot, drying out, or nearly drying, the cushions and mattresses, and lampglow at night cast soft light on the innocent faces of sleeping children.

We're a lot better off up there now—and dependent on the utility company. But there was something precious in the original shack and the natural outdoors. It helps me to appreciate the intent of the boy who takes his tape recorder outside there at night to catch the cadence of frogs in the darkness.

Zambia: Tribes, Brides and Cattle

By RICHARD HALL

LUSAKA, Zambia — When African politicians achieve power they are often faced with the embarrassing task of eradicating tribal traditions which sometimes stop economic and social progress. The old colonialist administration sometimes tackled such traditions in a big-brother way and the nationalists, for political advantage, backed up tribal resistance to change.

Zambia, formerly Northern Rhodesia, which became independent last October, provides a classic example of circumstances altering cases. The country has large herds of cattle which for tribal reasons are kept as wealth and symbols of family prestige.

Painful Imports

Yet Zambia suffers from acute beef shortages which have to be met by imports from neighboring Bechuanaland and white-controlled Southern Rhodesia. Such imports are painful and the government is working urgently to persuade African cattle-owners to adopt a modern, commercial attitude.

A few years before independence an African National Congress campaign against incursions for trypanosomiasis (animal sleeping sickness) caused the deaths of thousands of head of cattle. Zambia today has 1,250,000 head—more than one cow for every three people in the country. But the annual "take-off" is only about three per cent, whereas in most cattle-producing countries between 10 per cent and 15 per cent are slaughtered every year.

New Schemes

At the start of this month the government launched new schemes to encourage farmers to bring more cows to market. There are incentive bonuses, new grading systems and higher prices. But the African politicians are up against tradition which rules that cattle must be kept for the bride-price (lobolo). In the big Tonga tribe a man who cannot give cattle for a wife is nobody. All the noble girls are denied him.

The Tonga people are Zambia's principal cattle-owners. They are also intense conservatives—when the cash price of cows is raised they merely express pleasure at the advance of their fortunes and sell fewer beasts to get the same amount of money as last year. Such a state of affairs rules Zambia's minister of agriculture, Mr. Elijah Mudenda, a

Cambridge graduate with a brilliant reputation as a plant pathologist, who also happens to be a member of the Tonga tribe. He says: "Our cattle-owners have a duty to sell regularly at cattle sales, to look after their animals and pastures, and to increase the production of Zambia to her own food requirements."

Mr. Mudenda rightly claims that with a world shortage of beef, Zambia has the resources to become a major exporter; but first of all she must double the slaughter rate just to meet her own needs—and the amount of beef eaten in the country amounts to only 17 pounds a person yearly.

Made Appeal

"We do not like to depend on others," says Mr. Mudenda, who remembers how he had to telephone his white opposite number in Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, last September to appeal for more carcasses. But he has a hard task ahead in convincing the Tonga farmers, as they gaze contentedly at their lean herds munching the spiky grass. For them, wealth on the hoof has always been better than money, that white man's novelty.

EINSTEIN'S GREAT GENIUS IS RE-EXAMINED

By ROY TERRY

Physicists and mathematicians around the world celebrate this year three important anniversaries. It is 60 years since Einstein published his famous paper on the special theory of relativity, 50 years since he wrote his definitive account of the general theory, and ten years since his death in 1955.

And this has provided physicists with an excuse to re-examine some of the contributions this genius of the 20th century made to our way of life.

Too many people regard Einstein and the theory of relativity as something remote and beyond their comprehension. Bertrand Russell has made the most apt remark which summarizes this attitude by the lay public: "Everybody knows that Einstein has done something astonishing, but very few people know exactly what it is that he has done."

Yet the mind of Einstein conceived the most spectacular of all events in this century of scientific marvels—the atomic bomb. Shortly after his momentous original contribution to a German journal, Annalen der Physik, in 1905, Einstein published an article projecting his theory a little further. In this he declared that the use of atomic energy was possible in principle and that this tremendous force could be achieved according to a formula which has become the most celebrated in history:  $E=mc^2$ . That says, in effect, energy equals mass multiplied by the speed of light and again by the speed of light. Without this equation it is doubtful whether we would today have been living in the atomic age.

To bring Einstein down to a more "homely" level, there is the fact that he paved the way for television, the sound tracks on motion pictures and the electric eye with its varied uses.

It was Einstein's Photoelectric Law, explaining the photoelectric effect, which was later applied by physicists and resulted in the invention of these techniques which are so essential to the 20th century's recreational activities.

Not many people are aware that it was this discovery which led to Einstein being awarded the Nobel Prize in physics in 1922.

In his special theory of relativity, Einstein challenged man's concepts of time and space, and of matter and energy. While one cannot attempt to explain the concepts here, perhaps it will suffice to enumerate some of the things Einstein asked the world to accept in his paper which had the simple title: "On the Electro-dynamics of Moving Bodies":

He maintained that:
* Space was curved;
* The shortest distance between two points was not a straight line;
* Parallel lines would eventually meet;
* Light rays were curved;

* Measurements of length varied with speed;
* A body in motion would contract in size but increase in mass; and
* There existed a fourth dimension, time, in addition to height, length and width.

Many of Einstein's theories are only now being proved correct. Space flight, for instance, has opened the way to the practical application of his work, just as Einstein opened the way, so to speak, for space flight.

Thus has one man influenced your life and mine. There is no doubt that wherever we may look there is the indelible imprint of the genius of Einstein. It is fitting, therefore, that the world should not forget the man who was born into a middle-class family at Ulm, Bavaria, 86 years ago.

"Can you imagine her waking me for that?" he said. "After all, a mouse is perfectly digestible!"

The Richest Sheik of Araby Huddles Quaking in Mud Palace

By PATRICK SEALE

ABU DHABI, Trucial Coast — A frail, mummified-looking old man in a whitewashed fort on the Persian Gulf is causing acute embarrassment in Whitehall.

Sheik Shakhbut, of Abu Dhabi, is the richest of the sheikly rulers of the Trucial Coast—but also the most stubbornly reactionary.

He is terrified of his oil millions and refuses to spend them, to the great frustration of his 15,000 denuded subjects and of the foreign bankers, contractors and sharp salesmen who invaded his village capital in the fervent hope that Abu Dhabi would become another Kuwait.

They have waited in vain for the bonanza. The streets of Abu Dhabi remain pot-holed and unlit; the waterfront is still shelved; there is no hospital for the sick and no trade school for the young; the glad roar of a bulldozer is nowhere to be heard.

Shakhbut sits quaking with indecision in his mud palace, guarded by barefoot men-at-arms amid a litter of bills. Like a pools winner he wrestles to keep his old world right side up. He has even refused to renegotiate his prewar and most unfavorable oil agreement, thereby foregoing some $10 million last year. His present riches are burdensome enough. Like a man adrift in a sea of sharks, he dare not move a finger for fear of attracting the avid attention of the world. Only two of the 14 ruling sheiks before him died a natural death, which has no doubt contributed to his profoundly suspicious nature.

'Write Nothing'

"Write nothing about us, either good or bad," he said to me this week. But he sent his secretary after me with stubs of 10-year-old cheques to disprove the old wounding tale that he keeps his money under his bed rather than in the bank.

Only a Moroccan astronomer could interpret the workings of his mind. His latest whim, wholly out of character, has been to buy a $300,000 yacht from Prince Rainier of Monaco. But when it arrived Shakhbut sacked the captain, the crew and the French chef, whose tastes he found too lavish. Today the yacht moulders at the end of the jetty, an island of decaying off-white luxury. Taxi drivers have been hired to swab down the decks.

This is a ruler Britain is committed by treaty to protect. What he does, or fails to do, the British are blamed for. There is not an Arab but believes that if Shakhbut is obstinate, mean and wilful, it is because the British government wants it so. His case is the most flagrant illustration of Britain's unsatisfactory ambiguous position in the Gulf. It is a position of responsibility without the power or the will to set things right.

Head In Sand

But Abu Dhabi cannot long be protected by its surrounding deserts and salt flats. It cannot forever live in isolation with Shakhbut's head buried deep in the sand. Its future is intimately tied to that of its neighbours on the Trucial Coast and to the Arabian peninsula as a whole. Riots in Bahrain and the persistent attentions of the Arab League are so many alarm bells. Already 120 Egyptian teachers up and down the coast are transforming the mental attitudes of the rising generation. The inescapable dilemma towards which Britain is being driven is that she must either get tough with rulers like Shakhbut or get out, withdrawing her protection. To do nothing, as at present, is to take all the blame and to be eventually forced out under, no doubt, undignified conditions.

Little more than 75,000 people live on the Trucial Coast under the autocratic rule of seven petty sheiks. The frontiers of their fiefs are uncertainly demarcated and the allegiance of their tribesmen fluctuating.

Abu Dhabi's neighbor, Dibal, is the most sophisticated. Its shrewd merchant sheik, Rashid, has turned his coastal capital into a busy little Venice without the aid of an oil income. He has dredged his creek, reclaimed its banks, introduced municipal services, built an international airport and practised a vigorous policy of laissez faire which has allowed Dibal to build up a vast, if rather dubious, entrepot trade in gold and other commodities with India, Pakistan and Southern Iran. Imports last year were worth about $18 million and re-exports a shade below this figure.

Keeping Peace

Britain's main contribution to the area has been to keep the peace. The seven trucial sheiks are forever at odds with one another, but the last serious clash was in 1948, when hundreds were killed in a minor war between Abu Dhabi and Dibal. Since then a British-officered force, the Trucial Oman Scouts, has separated would-be combatants.

But the presence of the Scouts has frozen the political situation, destroying the traditional mechanism for getting rid of unsatisfactory rulers. It is doubtful, for instance, whether Sheik Shakhbut would have survived the advent of oil without British protection. Ten years ago the Scouts intervened in his inland oasis of Buraimi to expel an invading Saudi force.

Britain's present policy is to encourage the seven sheikdoms of the Trucial Coast to federate and to draw closer to their giant neighbor, Saudi Arabia, which shares with Britain a vital interest in keeping the Persian Gulf stable and secure.

Fierce Isolation

Shakhbut opposes both courses. He has no interest in federation, advocating instead a fierce, petrified isolationism; and he has no interest in becoming dependent on Saudi Arabia, counting instead on continued British protection while scorning British advice to reform, modernize and channel his wealth into a development fund for the whole coast.

The present British political agent in Abu Dhabi, Colonel Sir Hugh Boustead, has failed in three trying years to budge Sheik Shakhbut. London has demurred at tough measures. Sir Hugh is retiring next month. It is to be hoped that his replacement will be given a mandate to do more than advise and cajole.

Weather 'Poor Bet' For Insurance Firms

OTTAWA (CP)—When it came to making a dollar, the weather was a poor bet for casualty insurance companies last year. And aircraft liability insurance was even worse.

Details of income and claims on different classes of insurance were released here Monday, and they showed claims ratios that varied from zero on several types, including earthquake insurance, up to 108.3 per cent on aircraft liability. Weather insurance had a ratio of 102.7 per cent, based on premium earnings of $17,893 against net claims of $18,374.

Automobile liability insurance was by far the biggest item in the report, accounting for premiums earned of $247,477.919 and net claims of $198,063,068 for a claims ratio of 81.3 per cent.

Premiums from fire insurance brought in $204,045,625, and claims took out $110,502,301. This provided a ratio of 54.1 per cent.

Windstorm insurance brought in $112,460 to the companies during the year, while they paid out $42,155 in claims for a ratio of 37.5 per cent.

Among the higher ratios was personal accident and sickness group insurance. This 81-percent ratio arose from premium earnings of $172,327,245 and claims of $139,516,896.

Theft insurance brought in premiums of $8,261,448 against net claims of $4,054,836 for a ratio of 49.1 per cent.

The over-all claims ratio for fire and casualty insurance was 66.8 per cent based on earned premiums of $964,706,769 and net claims of $644,721,258. This compares with a 1963 ratio of 68 per cent.

Soviet Freighter Enters Seaway

MONTREAL (CP)—The freighter Mitchurinsk today became the first Soviet ship to enter the St. Lawrence Seaway system, but her departure was delayed two hours when a mooring cable snapped.

The 10,000-ton freighter was inching towards the St. Lambert locks entrance to the seaway at 7 a.m. when the cable gave way.

Adrift, the vessel swung to the side of the narrow canal and bumped the retaining wall three times. With the anchor dragging, the vessel was hauled back into the centre of the channel.

An inspection showed only minor damage.

Earlier, Stefanov Vasily, captain of the Soviet ship, was presented with a gift of two books, one in French and the other in English on seaway history.

The Mitchurinsk is headed for Toronto and Hamilton. It won't dock at any United States ports, but will travel through U.S. territory around Massena, N.Y., via the Snell and Eisenhower locks.

Steelworkers Reduce Goals For New Pact

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The steel industry, faced with the threat of a May 1 strike, today studied a new union proposal for a three-year contract providing for three annual wage package increases of 17.5 cents each.

United Steelworkers Union (USW) sources said the money demands were in line with the 3.2 per cent wage increase guidelines set by the president's council of economic advisers.

The union's original contract demands, greeted by the industry as "preposterous," were submitted to 11 major steel companies March 29. They were valued by various sources as high as $1 and $2 an hour over three years.

It appeared the new contract proposal had been held back by the union for submission during 11th hour bargaining. One union source said the new proposal was a "drastic comedown" from the March 29 proposal.

The new proposal was submitted late Monday at a 10-minute meeting between the union's top president David J. McDonald, and the industry negotiating team, headed by R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice-president of U.S. Steel Corp.

There was not immediate reaction from the industry.

Official Denies Rumor Of Alberta Holdings

TORONTO (CP)—The president of Canadian Homestead Oils Ltd. says he has no idea why his company's shares traded heavily at higher prices on the Toronto Stock Exchange Monday.

In a statement to the exchange, B. W. Watson said: "No facts have come to the attention of the company which would account for the increase in trading volume and the price rise in the company stock Monday."

Shares of Canadian Homestead climbed $1 to $2.20 and sold as high as $2.96 on turnover of 210,000 shares on the TSE Monday.

Previous high for the stock was $1.20 and the low 86 cents.

The jump followed rumors the company had property in the Rainbow area of northern Alberta.

Mr. Watson denied the rumor. He said: "The company has no knowledge of any holdings which would substantiate a rumor that interests are held in the Rainbow area of northern Alberta."

Insiders Made Stock Killing

13 Texas Gulf Officials Named In U.S. Commission Charges

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission has filed a civil suit against 13 executives and employees of Texas Gulf Sulphur Co., alleging they purchased thousands of company shares while withholding knowledge of a rich ore strike at Timmins, Ont.

The suit, filed late Monday in U.S. district court, claims the defendants took advantage of their "inside" knowledge for personal profit.

The suit seeks reimbursement by the insiders—a Wall Street name for officers, directors and major stockholders—to persons who, in ignorance, sold shares to the stockholders.

Texas Gulf last year was the most heavily traded stock on the New York Stock Exchange with a volume of more than 24,000,000 shares. It rose 115.3 per cent for the year and has jumped from 23 1/4 at the close of 1963 to its high this year of 71 1/4. The stock closed Monday at 71.

Named in the suit were most of Texas Gulf's top corporate officers, including its president, Claude O. Stephens of Pleasantville, N.Y.

In addition, the suit mentions Thomas S. Lamont, former vice-chairman of Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., and Herbert Klotz, an assistant commerce secretary. Klotz is not named as a defendant.

'ADVISED TO BUY'

The SEC alleges that Morgan Guaranty, a New York investment bank, was advised by Lamont to buy 8,000 shares of Texas Gulf. He is a director of both Texas Gulf and the bank.

Stephens said in a statement Monday night that "the company is fully prepared to show that the company's conduct has been both legally and morally correct."

He said also that "during the last year the company's officers, directors and a number of key employees have co-operated fully with the SEC in an exhaustive investigation of all aspects of this case."

The SEC charged in its suit that the firm issued a "materially false and misleading" press release April 12, 1964, which discounted rumors of the ore strike in Timmins.

The steady buying by company officials began Nov. 12, 1963, when a first drill indicated high-grade copper and zinc deposits had been found, and continued until April 16, 1964, the SEC said. During this period, the suit alleges, the defendants collectively bought 9,100 shares, made calls on 5,200 shares and received options to purchase 31,200 shares at lower prices.

Apologetic Bandits Get $9,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police here are searching for two cool, apologetic bandits who pulled a $9,000 robbery at a Vancouver dairy office late Saturday, just minutes before an armored car was due to pick up the cash.

Jersey Farms Dairy supervisor Gary Morgan, 56, said he was knocked on the head with a gun butt by one of the men as the two herded Morgan, a dairy driver and a cashier into a corner and then rifled the office.

Morgan said one of the bandits—both wore dark raincoats, dairy driver's caps and sunglasses and gloves—"kept saying how sorry they were to be doing this to us but that it was a dog-eat-dog world and that we shouldn't be concerned since it was the company's money, not ours."

The complaint listed the individual stock transactions of the 13 defendants, plus Morgan Guaranty and Klotz. The commerce department official was said to have received knowledge of the discovery from Miss Nancy Atkinson, a commerce department secretary reported to be a personal friend of Kenneth H. Darke, field geologist for Texas Gulf Sulphur. Darke was named as a defendant.

Other defendants, in addition to Stephens, Lamont and Darke, are:

Charles F. Fogarty of Rye, N.Y., executive vice-president; Richard D. Mollison, Greenwich, Conn., vice-president; Richard H. Clayton, Manhattan, an engineer; Walter Holyk, chief geologist, Stamford, Conn.; David M. Crawford, secretary, Morristown, N.J.; Francis G. Coates, a director, Houston, Tex.; Harold B. Kline, vice-president and general counsel, Manhattan; Thomas P. O'Neill, an accountant, Manhattan, John A. Murray, office manager, Queens, New York City, and Earl L. Huntington, a lawyer, Elmhurst, Queens.

The suit was filed under a rule which makes it illegal for an officer, director or employee of a corporation to misstate pertinent facts or fail to give pertinent facts when buying the corporation's securities.

Initially, Texas Gulf estimated its find in the Timmins area at 25,000,000 tons of ore—which includes zinc, copper and silver. By June, 1964, after first discounting speculative rumors of a greater yield, the company revised its estimate to 55,000,000 tons.

Too old to buy insurance?

Being over 65 is no barrier to the purchase of new life insurance. And for many people in their sixties or seventies it can be a very wise "buy."

Here's an example. A man age 75 has a substantial number of investments. At death, estate taxes will have to be paid. To raise the cash, income-producing assets have to be sold, often with severe losses to the beneficiaries. Life insurance can prevent this loss by providing the necessary cash.

Manufacturers Life has a sound reputation for its liberal approach to insuring older people for the purpose of estate conservation or for guaranteeing the continuity of a business. Our representatives are qualified to provide competent counsel to help our senior citizens meet these special needs.

Think of all the small economy cars that will cut your motoring costs.

Now consider this: Doesn't it make sense to choose the one with looks you'll be proud of?

That's the 1965 Vauxhall Viva by General Motors Gold Medal winner at the 1964 London Motor Show.

It's one thing to be proud of the low price you pay, the economy you get and the handling and readability you enjoy in an economy car... but it's another thing again when you're forever apologizing for its styling. Of course, it doesn't have to be that way. Not when you buy a Vauxhall Viva. You can be proud of its looks. Its coachwork won a Gold Medal at the 1964 London Motor Show.

And consider how much more Viva gives you besides good looks... like a 50 hp engine, fully synchronized 4-speed transmission, Roll-control suspension, up to 45 mpg economy, Magic-

Mirror finish, 10.76 cu. ft. of trunk space. The list goes on and on. So, if you want a small, low price economy car with looks you can be proud of, go see the man who sells Viva. OK?

TEMPORARY DOCKS IN OFFING AT SWARTZ?

Temporary-docking facilities probably will be required this summer at Swartz Bay.

Current expansion program at the ferry terminal is due to be completed June 14, but ferry authority manager Monty Aldous has indicated the deadline may not be met.

However, the summer schedule will start then regardless of whether the additional big ferry dock, relocated dock and new Gulf Islands dock are completed.

The summer schedule, as revealed last fall, will be operated by five ships with transfer of the Queen of Sidney from the Nanaimo-Vancouver run.

This will permit sailings every hour with the Sidney making it a half-hour interval three times a day as she leaves Swartz Bay for Tsawwassen with stops in the Gulf Islands en route.

India, Pakistan Claim LBJ Snub

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Indian government feels President Johnson deliberately snubbed Prime Minister Shastri when he asked him to postpone his scheduled visit to Washington indefinitely.

Many Indian officials feel the U.S. president was impolite or even arrogant in the abruptness of his request.

Shastri is deemed to have been disgraced publicly and thus to have "lost face"—and in Asia that's serious.

Foreign Minister Swaran Singh told Parliament today that Shastri would "look to his convenience" before accepting another invitation from Johnson.

Shastri said he would visit Canada, but that no dates had been set. The prime minister had been scheduled to spend two days in Ottawa prior to going to Washington.

Reports from neighboring Pakistan indicate there was much the same reaction there to Johnson's request that Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan also put off his visit.

Ayub was scheduled to travel to Washington April 25 and Shastri June 2.

The White House announced Friday it had requested the postponements. Administration spokesmen said Johnson would be too busy with the Viet Nam crisis and a heavy congressional workload.

DON'T BELIEVE IT

Many government officials and almost the entire Indian press do not believe the explanation.

Singh told Parliament the government had informed the U.S. government there is likely to be "misunderstanding" in India over the postponement.

Members shouted "nonsense" and "shame" when the foreign minister suggested India should accept Johnson's explanation that he would be too busy to meet Shastri.

It is generally believed Johnson wanted to show displeasure over Indian criticism of U.S. foreign policy. Indian officials, particularly Singh, have been highly critical of Johnson's Viet Nam policy. The belief is widespread here that Johnson took offence at Indian efforts to pressure the United States into negotiations.

Johnson also was felt to have been offended by India's frequent but unproven charges that Pakistan is using weapons from the American military aid program to kill Indian troops in border skirmishes.

Canada Pension Plan Too Low—Hamilton

By AL FORREST

Second of a Series

Alvin Hamilton uses imprecise language to describe the Canadian pension plan.

"Sham" is one of the nicer words.

The farm hand who became agriculture minister under John Diefenbaker said in Victoria this week that Canadians will take a second look at the pension plan the day that deductions start.

"That will be a great education," he said. "Many people will lose their enthusiasm for it then."

He said his main criticism of the pension is that it is not high enough. Prices are zooming and even an escalation clause will not be able to keep the pension up with prices.

Mr. Hamilton said that during the depression years on the Prairies, he had planned for a pension of $100 per month.

"That seemed like a lot of money then. But now it is not enough to live on. And all those politicians down at Ottawa remember the depression and they passed this plan. I stayed away. I didn't vote for it."

TREMENDOUS PRESSURE

"It was difficult. There were tremendous pressures. What do you say when a young woman is happy because her father will be getting a pension in 10 years as a result of this plan. How do you explain it to them?"

"Well, when deductions start they may be willing to listen."

With prices going up and the working life getting shorter, a man has to prepare for a long and expensive retirement, he said.

"It is getting so a person is considered old at 50. At that age a company puts a man in semi-retirement and the younger men take over."

"The retirement age will become lower all the time."

How to prepare for it? The stock market is the only way to raise enough money, Mr. Hamilton said.

He suggested that young people should invest most of their spare money in speculative stocks and the rest in bonds. Then when they near retirement age they should convert stocks to secure bonds.

LOWEST RETURN

These would provide far more money than the pension plan. The pension plan brings the lowest possible return on a man's investment—and it is compulsory, Mr. Hamilton said.

"The plan we have today is a Quebec plan. If you want to change it you have to talk it over with Premier Lesage."

He said a Conservative government would study the possibility of making the pension plan optional.

"There are cases when compulsion is necessary. But in the case of the pension plan the same results can be achieved by putting the plan on an optional basis."

He said he takes a similar stand for car insurance. Every motorist should be compelled to carry public liability insurance so other people are protected if a driver is involved in an accident.

But whether the driver carries insurance to protect himself is his own business and should be optional.

FOR TALKS on subjects ranging from Viet Nam to the proposed overhaul of U.S. immigration laws Italian Premier Aldo Moro arrived in Washington Monday. He was to meet with President Johnson today and Wednesday.

Same Goal, Says France

PARIS (AP)—President de Gaulle has replied to the appeal of 17 non-aligned nations for a negotiated peace in Viet Nam by saying France has favored this objective for years.

The reply was made in a letter to Mita Milkovic, Yugoslavia's ambassador to Paris, about a week ago. The text of the letter was released by French officials today.

The letter said: "The French government can only take note with interest of the move by Yugoslavia and a number of other African and Asian countries, a move for which the main conclusion coincides with the position taken by France for years in favor of a peaceful settlement of the Viet Nam conflict."

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

This HAS to be the silly season.

They played a hockey game in Portland last week with the temperature reading 68.

They played a baseball game in Minneapolis with the temperature at 31.

Horse racing is upon us Friday in Vancouver. Friday? That's seven days BEFORE the income tax deadline!

Who's got money to improve the breed before making his peace with the revenuers? Only a horse player, silly.

You see, you take the bundle and you talk to a friend and the friend says "first time this horse runs you get fat" and you bet... and that's why they call it the silly season.

Black Hawks Were Kind to Billy . . .

Rudy Pilous says "if you do your best the worst won't happen." But whenever y'r operator indulges in peerless prognostications, all hell breaks loose.

Months ago I liked in cold remorseless print Billy Reay to be canned after the National Hockey League season. There were strong precedents. Chicago Black Hawks have a sort of musical chairs relationship with coaches. They can stay as long as it's alright with the players.

So what happened? Reay and the Black Hawks are in the playoffs. They will probably win. And Reay will be named coach of the year.

You might ask why people who persist in butting their heads against adversity don't cease. Go ahead and ask. Forgotten, have you, how, on March 11, a certain columnist whose name cannot be revealed, touted George Royal ($13.60) ho! ho! in the San Juan Capistrano?

Enough of that. Major league umpires are bawling "Play ball (in Japan they have trouble with their 'i's and it comes out "Pray Barrrr") and selections must follow as street cleaners trail horses in a parade.

Experience has taught that the best approach is upside-down rather than head-first. In other words, it should be done backward. Some folks may not even notice the difference.

In the National League, the race for last place will be between New York Mets, copyright owners, and Houston Astros, worthy challengers.

Silver Threads Club Vs. All-Sooke

Casey Stengel, who is 67, has Warren Spahn, who is 44, and Lawrence Berra, who is 40, and this isn't the Silver Threads House League. Houston has a $31.6 million indoor aspidistra but the Astros sometimes play funnier baseball than you see on All-Sooke Day.

The Mets will outdraw everybody and finish last in both leagues.

There isn't much to choose between Pittsburgh and Chicago. The former lost Bill Mazeroski, their infielder nonpareil, and it gets smoggy in Pittsburgh. Edge to Chicago where they haven't had much to whoop about since Ness was chasing Capone.

After that, a serious man should write about Parneschi, Los Angeles finished sixth but they have pitchers (Drysdale, Osteen, Podres) who make batters wish they had taken out more life insurance. Sixth.

Milwaukee finished fifth, five games away. Their pitching is suspect but when it's their turn to play bats they rub it in. Fifth.

Cincinnati Reds' pitchers don't throw baseballs—just smoke bombs. But the team hitting is contemporary measles (spotty) and there are people in the infield who need butterfly nets. Fourth.

San Francisco Giants have Willie Mays, a ball-park (Candlestick) located in the apex of a hurricane and no left-handed throwers. All they can do is hit home runs. Third.

Mamie Should Draw Well In Philly

St. Louis Cardinals are full of the rich maturity of old age and you know what happened to Toronto Maple Leafs. Still the Cards have spirit and people with lusty bats and they didn't beat Slippery Rock Geraniums in the last World Series. Second.

Philadelphia Phillies missed the boat in '64 because they couldn't find the plug and all those early victories slipped down the drain.

This year they will have twofold inspiration . . . money and Mamie. Gene Mauch will emphasize the former and Mamie Van Doren, friend, kind of, will decorate the ball-park whenever Bo Belinsky pitches. First.

In the American League, prophets have had it soft since the early '50s. They marked their X beside "New York Yankees" and spent pleasant summers looking forward to picking up their bets in the fall.

The Days of Wine and Roses may be over for the prophets and the Yankees. Mantle's legs are less solid than those on a Heintzman; Ford is 36. But the Yankee demise won't come at the hands of Kansas City Athletics, who once wore gold and green uniforms, vertical stripe stockings and played like the Rockettes. They have changed the colors and the stripes, added a donkey mascot and still play like the Rockettes. Tenth.

Washington Senators traded their best pitcher (Osteen) to Los Angeles for Frank Howard, who hits. Sometimes. They call manager Gil Hodges the nicest guy in baseball. Nice guys can finish next to last, though. Ninth.

Don't Let Anybody Steal the Park, Al

Boston and Detroit should have seventh and eighth locked up. Los Angeles (Angels) will give them a run for it if Dean Chance's right arm falls off.

Minnesota has plough-boy muscle but Twin pitchers wear protective iron vests and lead the league in personal hygiene. Cleveland will jump from sixth to fourth. The pitching is swift (McDowell, Tiant, Terry) and the hitting will give other hurlers long nights.

Baltimore and New York (not the Mets) look like second or third-place tenants. Relief pitching and the bats of Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson make the Orioles sing. The Yanks have won five pennants in a row. No team has won six and this edition creaks more than some of its predecessors.

Who's that whistling in the engine room?

Senior Al Lopez. Unlike the Yanks, who hope to ride an ailing Ford to the bank, Chicago White Sox have a fleet of fireballers, the best fireman ( Hoyt Wilhelm), good power (abatted by Bill Skowron and John Romano) and respectable fielding.

All Lopez has to do to win the pennant, it says here, is to make out the batting order every day and check to see that nobody steals Comiskey Field. You think that's easy, you're crazy.

Why d'you suppose Lopez is paid more money than a prime minister like Mike Pearson?

Astrodome Windows To Get Paint Job

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The plastic windows on Houston's domed stadium will be painted in an effort to prevent the glare from the sun that threatened to prevent playing of daytime ball games in the $31,600,000 structure.

Judge Roy Hofheinz, president of the Houston Sports Association which operates Houston Astros of the National League, says the 4,596 plastic windows will be covered with a thin layer of a special off-white paint that adheres to plastic.

"We are confident it will be the answer to the glare problem and make possible daylight games under the best conditions in the major leagues," Judge Hofheinz said.

The first daytime league game comes Sunday when the Astros play Pittsburgh.

The judge was disturbed by the fact that Houston Astro outfielders used batting helmets in an intra-squad game for fear of being hit by fly balls.

In other games an overcast sky removed most of the problem.

SWOONING RECORD BREAKER

Caught by police as he fainted Shigematsu was happy guy when he seconds after finishing annual Boston Marathon Monday, Japan's Morio was revived. He won 26-mile, 385-yard race in record time of 2:16:33.

'THANK YOU . . .

MR. POLICEMAN'

'Where's Finish Line?'

BOSTON (CP)—Morio Shigematsu, 25, who had to ask police for directions last week while training for the Boston Marathon, had no trouble finding the finish line Monday.

The Japanese university student covered the 26-mile, 385-yard course in the record time of 2:16:33.

Japanese runners captured the first three places and took five out of the top six spots.

Athletes from that country had been absent from the event for five years after winning three times in the 1951-55 span.

Hideaki Shishido was second, 2:17:12, and Takayuki Nakao was third, 2:17:31.

Fourth place went to Belgium's Aurele Vandendriessche, bidding for his third straight victory. He finished in 2:17:46.

FIVE BETTER RECORD

Yoshikazu Funasako and Kazuo Matsubara were fifth and sixth in 2:18:18 and 2:19:17.

The first five runners bettered the Belgian's record of 2:18:58 set in 1963.

Top Canadian was Gordon Wallingford, 31, assistant professor of physical education at McMaster University, Hamilton, Ont., who finished 11th in 2:23:36.

He finished third last year in 2:20:51, fastest time of the event for a Canadian.

Dave Ellis of Toronto Olympic Club, a sixth place finisher last year, dropped out at about the 20-mile mark. Gordon Dickson of Hamilton, first-place finisher in Canadian Olympic trials in Calgary last fall, was 55th in 2:47:04.

Other Canadians to finish were Jim Freeman of Vancouver, 18th in 2:30:58; Geoff Hodgson of Hamilton, 23rd in 2:33:29; Roland Michaut of Montreal, 37th in 2:37:54; Dave Prokop of London, Ont., 42nd in 2:40:15; Paul Hoffman of Toronto, 46th in 2:42:46; Herbert Monck of Hamilton, 47th in 2:44:13; Michel Rose of Montreal, 60th in 2:49:05; and Regis Forcl of Montreal, 67th in 2:51:27.

Chisox' Lopez May Have Last Laugh With Phils

Al Lopez, manager of the Chicago White Sox, has a long memory, and that's why he's chuckling to himself these days about a winter trade he engineered with the Philadelphia Phillies.

The trade, which occurred last November, brought a promising young outfielder named Danny Cater to the Chisox in exchange for 35-year-old Ray Herbert, whom Philadelphia gambled would provide its pitching staff with enough experience and depth to win the National League pennant.

The circumstances of that trade must have seemed all too similar to those that surrounded the deal in 1959 which sent Johnny Callison to Philadelphia, where he subsequently reached all-star status. Callison, like Cater, was a promising ball-player but Lopez gambled that veteran Gene Freese would provide the team with enough power to repeat as American League champion and lost.

That first round went to the Phillies, but it now appears that the White Sox have gained a measure of revenge. Cater has waded into American League pitching with a vengeance, collecting nine hits in his first 14 at bats.

CATER CAN CLOUT

And what's even more important to the power-hungry Chisox, Cater has proved he can hit the long ball. He amply demonstrated this Monday night when he slammed a three-run home to break open a tight game against the Baltimore Orioles in a 7-2 Chicago victory.

In other American League games, Kansas City Athletics crushed New York Yankees 8-2 as Jim Gentile stroked his third homer in three days and Los Angeles Angels knocked Detroit Tigers out of first place by virtue of a 4-2 victory.

The White Sox' pennant hopes, which certainly have received a boost from the performance of Cater, look even better when assessed against the Yankees' play to date.

FORD LOOKS SHAKY

The chief concern of the perennial champions is the condition of Whitey Ford's arm. Ford, the New York ace for the past decade, says his arm feels fine following an operation over the winter, but his performance indicates otherwise.

The southpaw star, a 19-year winner last year, had a bad spring and now has been knocked out of the box in his first two starts. The A's jumped on him for four runs in the first inning Monday and finally chased him in the fourth after he had given up seven runs and six hits, including a titanic home run by Gentile. Ford now is the only pitcher in the Yankees' starting rotation who has failed to win a game.

Add Denis Menke to Jim Maloney's collection of hoodoos, which already includes Ellis Burton and Joe Christopher.

Menke got the only hit—a lead-off single in the eighth inning—off Maloney in Cincinnati's 2-0 triumph over Milwaukee Braves Monday.

The one-hitter was the third for the Reds' 24-year-old right hander in the three seasons. It also got him back into the regular pitching rotation.

In his first two one-hitters, Maloney was the victim of early singles. Burton got one for Chicago Cubs as the second batter of the game July 23, 1963. Christopher singled for New York Mets with one out in the second inning last Sept. 25.

Trophy Shop Repeats Tenpin Win

Trophy Shop have a thing on for tenpin bowlers—they win them.

They won last year. And this year. And unless they cool off or drop a ball on their toes they will probably win next year.

Dave Lee couldn't bowl for Trophy Shop this year. So they picked up Bob Munn. He averaged 166, eight pins over his average. Barry Stowe averaged 198, 18 better. Don Shaw was 180 and Terry Moody 179.

Trophy Shop split $400 first money in the Island 'spiel held at Mayfair Lanes on the holiday weekend.

OTHER WINNERS

In B, C and D events, Cowichan Leader, Sooke Dukes, and Four Squares prevailed, taking home assorted prizes.

Gar Taylor trophies for individual performances went to Will Smith and Bill Holmes, high single, 265; John Gaudet and Tom Nute, 256; and Bobb Munn, 251. Ladies: Freda Walker, high single, 246; Anne Goodman, 234; Freda Peacock and Muriel Dodsworth, 233 and 232.

The tourney's high triple was 645, thrown by Barry Stowe. Munn had 642, Janie Walker of Courtenay 633 and Nute 631.

St. Kits to Chi—Big Jump for Doug

Jarrett Gets Call to Fill In for Pilote

MONTREAL (CP)—While coach Billy Reay checked his mounting injury list and stars Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita were being hounded for autographs by a horde of hockey-minded youngsters, a well-dressed young man emerged unnoticed from Chicago Black Hawks' dressing room.

The Hawks had just completed their final workout Monday afternoon in preparation for tonight's second game of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final. They trail Montreal Canadiens 1-0 after the Habs squeezed by them 3-2 in Saturday night's opener.

One year ago, Doug Jarrett, a 20-year-old native of London, Ont., was performing in the Ontario Hockey Association as a junior for St. Catharines Black Hawks.

Now, a year later, he finds himself called on to replace two-time Norris Trophy winner Pierre Pilote at the blue-line in a Stanley Cup final.

Pilote is suffering a shoulder injury and remains a doubtful starter in tonight's game.

Heady Hockey

Jarrett, in his first year of pro hockey, played 17 games with St. Louis Flyers of the Central Pro League before getting the call to the parent club in December of last year.

In 46 games with the Hawks he had two goals and 15 assists. During the Detroit-Chicago semi-final series he dressed for every game, but as he said Monday, "I didn't get much chance to play."

Just what is the big difference in performing as a junior or a minor pro and the National Hockey League?

"The difference is not only the speed, but the heady hockey they play in this league," Jarrett said.

The youngster said the emphasis on speedy thinking and movement was clearly demonstrated to him in Saturday night's opener when he gave the puck to Canadiens' left-winger John Ferguson at the Chicago blue-line.

Costly Error

Ferguson made no mistake with the gift and wheeled in and deked Chicago netminder Glenn Hall neatly for his second playoff counter.

"It could have just as easily missed him, but it hit him and what happened," Jarrett said.

His only worry at the moment is moving back to the bench to gather splinters, the youngster said.

However, the Chicago club's book on Jarrett is good.

Reay said he started the game with him on defence "so he could gain confidence," and knowing he would be called on to take a shift, "wouldn't get nervous" before hitting the ice.

Reay said earlier he thinks Jarrett is a fine hockey player, and added most defencemen do not make it to the NHL at the tender age of 20.

However, Reay, plagued by injuries to three key players, called for help from another source Monday.

Red Hay Hurts

He strengthened his blue-line brigade by the addition of John Miszuk and Don Johns. He also has centre Gerry Melnyk and left-winger John Stanfield ready for tonight. All four are from Buffalo Bisons of the American League. John Stanfield is an older brother of the Hawks' rookie centre, Fred.

Melnik has two full NHL seasons behind him, while Miszuk and Johns have limited experience in the big league.

Joining Pilote and right-winger Kenny Wharram on the injured and doubtful-starter list is Bill (Red) Hay. He came up with an injured left elbow Monday and had x-rays taken, but results were not conclusive. It will be near game time before general manager Tommy Ivan and Reay decide whether he can start.

Wharram is nursing a sore knee, but likely will answer the opening whistle.

Commenting on Hay's injury, Reay said he didn't know about the ailment until Sunday night and "we believe there's a chipped bone in the elbow."

"Wharram should be able to play, but Pilote is very doubtful," Reay added.

HOW'S THE FIT?

'D-DAY'

Pilous Studies Medical Briefs

This was "D-Day" for Victoria Maple Leafs.

It was "Document Day" for coach Rudy Pilous, who couldn't plan on his lineup for the fourth game of the Western Hockey League final until he had sorted through a stack of medical reports this afternoon.

Trailing 2-1 in the best-of-seven series with Portland Buckaroos, the Leafs continue their hunt for the playoff title at Memorial Arena Wednesday night at 8.

In an optimistic mood today following Victoria's 4-3 overtime win before a record Portland playoff crowd Sunday night, Pilous admitted his biggest concern is the big list of Maple Leaf injuries.

"We are hoping we will get our ailments patched up by the point where we can put our regular lines on the ice. However, I won't know who can play until I see the documents from the doctor," Pilous said.

Rudy agreed that Wednesday's tussle could be the key game in the series.

Among the Leafs who have hurt that could keep them out for another game are centres Larry Keenan and Milan Marcetta, goalie Al Miller and defencemen Bill Shvetz and Sandy Hucl.

Leafs got a big boost Sunday when Jack Chipchase, an emergency replacement from the Junior Toronto Marlboros, took regular turns on defence, and Jean Guy Morissette, the league's standby goalie for the playoffs, took over for Miller, bothered by strained back muscles and an injured leg.

When Morissette helped the Leafs to their triumph, he kept alive a remarkable playoff string.

The little netminder has yet to lose a playoff game. Last season with Cleveland Barons, the agile 135-pound goalie played in nine straight playoff victories. Sunday he made it 10.

Whether or not Morissette and Chipchase get into the fray Wednesday will depend on the condition of Miller and Victoria defencemen.

As replacements, they can step back into the lineup only if regular players are still sidelined by injuries.

Kittens Show Claws

MONTREAL (CP)—Hamilton Kittens jumped into an early lead in competition for the Canadian junior women's basketball championship Monday night, trouncing Marguerite Bourgeois College of Montreal Westmount 80-28.

High scorer for the Kittens was Laraine Bielak with 15 points. Madeleine Gailleur scored 18 points for the Westmount team.

The Kittens controlled the game from the start and at halftime the score was 45-14.

The junior competition is a three-team round-robin series. The third team, from the University of Victoria, was to play its first game today against the Hamilton squad.

Later in the day, the Victoria team was scheduled to meet Marguerite Bourgeois College. Final playoffs between the top teams will be held Wednesday.

Chualo Bland Against Softie

TORONTO (CP) — George Chualo of Toronto, who feels he is "ready for anybody in the world," needed almost eight full rounds to dispose of out-of-shape Bill Nielsen of Omaha, Neb., Monday night.

The scheduled 10-round bout, before a small crowd of 5,980, was stopped at 2:47 of the eighth when referee Jackie Silver ruled that Nielsen, 199, was in no condition to continue.

While leading throughout the match, Chualo, 27, the Canadian heavyweight champ, was unable to put his unranked opponent on the canvas.

"He's a rugged, tough guy," said Chualo, listed No. 5 by the World Boxing Association, "but I had no trouble with him."

Nielsen, 25, offered no trouble in the form of punching power, but his sharp left jab had Chualo's nose bleeding from the first round to the end of the match.

Chualo's strategy was evident from the opening bell—to stalk his opponent and try to wear him down with a crushing body attack. While the body punches took their toll, the 209-pound Chualo was unable to put over anything resembling a knockout blow until the eighth round.

Nielsen back-pedalled throughout the fight, offering little more than his jab. In the second and fifth rounds he showed some good combinations, but did little damage.

"He is a very tough guy and I'm only sorry I ran out of steam," the handsome, curly-haired Nielsen said in the dressing room after the bout.

His souvenirs from the fight were a closed right eye and a small cut under the left. He said he had trained only five weeks after a seven-month layoff.

Irving Ungerman, Chualo's manager, said his fighter would fight "anywhere the money is."

He said he would like a rematch with Floyd Patterson, former world heavyweight champion, who won a 12-round decision over Chualo in New York in February.

"We'd like to get Patterson in June, but I think Patterson is backing away from George," he said. "He was supposed to be here tonight, but we haven't heard from him."

Chualo's end for the fight was a choice of either $8,000 or 30 per cent of the gate, whichever was greater. Nielsen received a $5,000 guarantee.

Promoters Vic Bagnato and Gus MacLellan dropped money on the night—they needed a crowd of 6,800 to break even.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Mixup in compiling scores delayed naming of "Bowler-of-the-Week" in men's tenpin division last week. But Richard Blake, city all-events handicap champion, feels "better late than never." The 24-year-old trundler topped Times-sponsored competition with 227-183-201-611 series at Mayfair Lanes. The 28-week competition concludes this week with all weekly winners eligible for championship rollofs May 9.

NHL COOL ...

Bunny Rides Longshot

LONDON (CP) — John F. (Bunny) Ahearne, Britain's leading hockey figure, said Monday he has applied for European television rights to National Hockey League games but that initial NHL reaction has been cool.

Ahearne, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said he expects to reply to a letter from the NHL's television committee perhaps Tuesday and "the matter is not yet closed."

"It could be a pretty big thing if it went through," Ahearne said in a telephone interview, adding at one point that prospects did not look good. His "attitude" to the NHL had been questioned, he said.

There have been times when the interests of the IIHF and the NHL clashed, said Ahearne, and this could be the reason for the professional league's cool reaction.

An IIHF meeting last May decided that any European ice stadium permitting the performance of professional hockey

Fancier 'Ex' Park Certain to Dazzle Punters and Ponies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Horseplayers who wagered a record $17,000,000 at Exhibition Park last year won't recognize the old place.

Neither will the horses. The 45-year-old wooden grandstand has been torn down, much of the firetrap barn area has been replaced, the paddock has been widened and the track itself renovated to remove a killer curve.

STARTS FRIDAY

By opening day Friday, the total bill will be about $2,000,000.

The modern steel-and-concrete grandstand-clubhouse structure will seat more than 5,000 persons—double the old capacity.

There will be a quick-service cafeteria to serve hot lunches to the general-admission patrons.

The clubhouse area will include a fashionable table terrace area to accommodate 400 for dining and dining while viewing through protective glass.

There will be licensed lounges for both clubhouse and grandstand patrons. A new working press area is situated atop the roof.

Jokey's quarters will include steam room, coffee bar, recreation room and sundeck.

The paddock area will be twice its former size.

As for the track itself, the radius of the northwest turn has been increased to provide a complete oval with matching spiral turns. The starting chute has been lengthened to provide for 6½-furlong races. The horses will have an additional 1/16th of a mile to sort out before reaching the first turn, eliminating jamming.

A glass fibre running rail will replace the old wooden rails.

B.C. Derby Worth $15,000 Added

Total purse distribution at Exhibition Park—and its Vancouver Island counterpart, Sandown—reached a record $1,317,135.51 last year, an increase of $87,000 over the 1963 figure.

With 89 days at Exhibition Park this year—an increase of three—all records are expected to topple.

Talented Tucker Back With Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders have announced the signing of three Canadians to new football contracts, including the club's long-pass threat, halfback Whit Tucker.

Fullback Rick Black and guard Jim Cain are the other signers.

Tucker, from the University of Western Ontario, caught 31 out of 34 passes in 1964 for 517 yards and five touchdowns. His average gain was 16.7 yards.

TOYOTA CROWN

Canada's first limousine quality car priced at $2625<sup>00</sup>

Presumptuous? Not at all. The Toyota Crown is indeed a limousine quality car. It is used daily by statesmen and company presidents in Japan and many other parts of the world. That, in fact, is how Toyota earned its enviable international reputation. The Toyota Crown has demonstrated its superb quality and reliability over thousands of miles of swift, silent and trouble-free driving in countries whose highways are decades behind Canada's in development.

The Toyota Crown should never be classed with lesser automobiles whose low prices are achieved only by sacrificing equipment necessary for your comfort and convenience. Every Toyota Crown comes equipped with undercoating; white wall tires; door-to-door deep pile carpeting; padded dash; seat belts; window washers; back-up lights and courtesy lights. Skeptics will doubt that a car of Toyota's quality, so equipped, can sell for just $2625.00. They doubted too, that high quality cameras could be sold for less.

Canadian Motor Industries is proud to offer the Toyota Crown to Canadians. We are determined to maintain Toyota's international reputation for excellence. That's why we instituted our policy of 24-hour service protection from coast to coast.

We invite you to visit your CMI dealer and inspect the Toyota Crown—the car with the international reputation for excellence.

Victims were Chemainus barber Jim Webster, his wife and two sons.

Webster was treated for a cut but his family is still in Chemainus hospital.

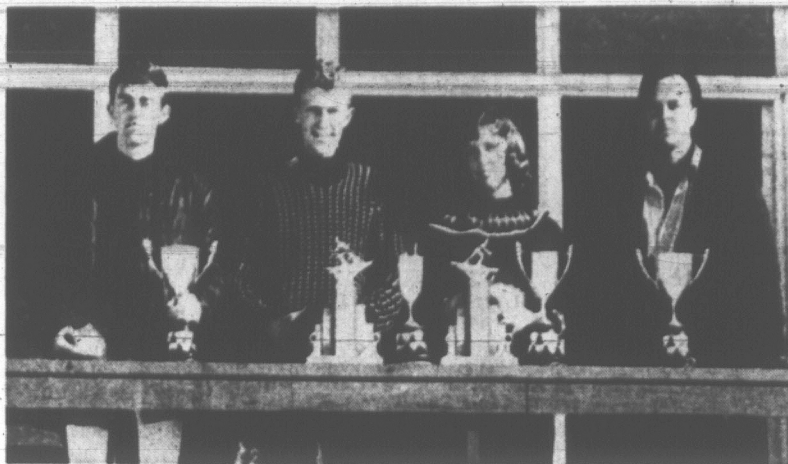

His wife suffered shock and bruises and the boys Keith, 13, and Arnold, 11, required stitches to forehead wounds.

The boys had been thrown into the windshield by the impact.

Webster was driving north four miles south of Duncan when the collision occurred.

RCMP said Lewis Harvey of Land's End Rd., Sidney, skidded across the centre line in front of Webster's vehicle.

A total of $1,000 damage was done.

Businessmen Hunt Ideas

NANAIMO—Twenty city businessmen led by Mayor Pete Maffeo have left here on an "idea hunt" through the Interior.

Their mission will be to come back with first-hand knowledge of what merchants in Penticton, Kelowna and Kamloops are doing to increase sales.

RETAILERS

They are members of Nanaimo Independent Retailers' Association.

They will tour Kamloops today and stay overnight in Kelowna and tour that business community Wednesday morning. They will meet with Penticton merchants Wednesday afternoon.

The Nanaimo merchants will be looking for parking problem solutions, business promotion ideas and tourist attractions.

Then Fine
Of $100

DUNCAN—Ben Groenwold of Cobble Hill was sitting behind the wheel of his car early Sunday morning when police made a routine check. Asked for his driver's licence, he produced a $1 bill and said: "Thank you."

Asked a second time he handed the constable a $20 bill.

Suspensions aroused, the police investigated Groenwold's condition more closely.

In court here this morning, Groenwold pleaded guilty to having care and control of his car while impaired.

When checked on the Trans-Canada Highway just south of Duncan, Groenwold had the car engine running and lights on, court was told.

He was fined $100 and banned from driving for three months—except for driving to and from his work as a slasher in a local mill.

More Advertising Urged For B.C. Dairy Farmers

DUNCAN—B.C. dairy farmers should double their advertising efforts, Fairbridge milk producer A. Stevenson said here Monday.

Mr. Stevenson spoke to the recent Vernon meeting of the South Okanagan Dairy Association as Vancouver Island regional director of the national dairy food bureau.

The bureau represents an advertising plan whereby farmers across Canada contribute 25 cents for every $100 profit.

FALLING BACK

But B.C. and Quebec farmers are falling behind, he said.

"In fact, B.C. farmers should contribute twice as much to fall in line with other provinces," he added.

B.C. farmers contributed $38,677 in 1964.

"They could have given twice as much and still made a profit from the scheme," Mr. Stevenson said.

Other provincial totals last year were Alberta, $85,411; Saskatchewan, $46,168; Manitoba, $48,376; Ontario, $326,981; Quebec, $110,427; New Brunswick, $15,888; Nova Scotia, $15,920, and Prince Edward Island, $12,543.

For every dollar given by the farmers, they receive $2 in advertising.

This year the national dairy food bureau is looking for $800,000 from Canadian farmers. Advertising expenses last year totalled $700,391.

Mr. Stevenson will take his case to a meeting of Nanaimo area dairymen.

Arthur Mayse

What you like for breakfast is your own business, but my idea of a meal to launch me on life's roller coaster for another day is a steak about the spread of my two hands, medium broiled, with a fried egg nestled sunnily atop.

Add hashed brown potatoes, a tomato slice, crusty toast, fresh-squeezed orange juice and two or perhaps three cups of non-instant coffee, and the world becomes a brighter place. With steak the price it is, though, and time at a premium most mornings, the above menu is mere wishful thinking, to be achieved as a glorious reality perhaps twice a year if I'm lucky.

At our place, as in most homes where school and work impose their arbitrary demands, breakfast is usually a snatch-and-run affair. The plain fact is that at 7 o'clock in the morning, Monday through Friday, we'd a darn-see sooner gobble a bowl of compressed hay at ten to eight than forego an extra half-hour of sleep.

On Saturdays and Sundays, of course, the picture changes. Then we're leisurely, even experimental. At intervals up to noon on the weekend, our table may carry anything from hotcakes to hamburgers.

This casual foraging is governed by two house-rules. Everyone does his own cleaning up; and if there's a streak in the refrigerator, nobody gets any fancy ideas about carving a chunk off it.

It seems to me that not enough is made of breakfast, the base upon which each day is built. It can be, and sometimes is, a truly memorable meal.

I have forgotten countless dinners, but a surprising number of breakfasts remain sharp-etched in memory.

Some were in fishing camps where the trout sizzled merrily with the bacon over quick fires of cedar hacked off a handy stump.

A grimmer one was crunched in the lee of a granite boulder in the middle of a Coast Range glacier. It consisted of one Lifesaver and one spoonful of Grape-nuts, washed down with ice water.

There was also the morning, at the bountiful tables of an up-island logging camp, when a feud of long standing erupted in violence.

In those days, a logging camp breakfast was a solemn and silent preparation for a hard day's work. The tottering stacks of hotcakes, the platters of eggs boiled in their shells, the vats of porridge and the towering coffee pots were diminished in a silence broken only by a "Please pass" or a laconic "Thanks."

For weeks, with no word spoken, Hans the dainty breakfaster on dry cereal watch Ollie the glutton prepare his feast by methods peculiar as they were goshawful.

For a start, Ollie would layer his plate with hotcakes. A dollop of oatmeal mush would follow. Over this, he would break several soft-boiled eggs. Next came a crisp-cross of bacon and a drenching of syrup.

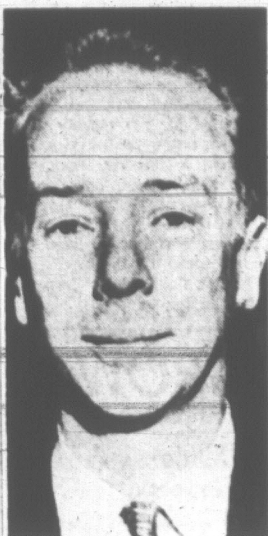

Tablemate Hans endured this ritual for months. Then one day, Ollie chose to expand his meal with a peaker of sausage and ketchup.

Up from his place with a wordless roar leaped Hans. He snatched a two-foot-long platter, and while eggs flew in all directions, crashed it down on Ollie's pig-shaven scone.

The platter cracked across. Ollie shook his head, lumbered to his feet, and with one great hand, grasped Hans by his nape. With the other, Ollie reached for a coffee pot, which he emptied steaming on his attacker.

Then the camp push came and them both, and breakfast resumed its seemly course.

Those gargantuan spreads aren't for a city man, and I wouldn't dream of sitting down to one these days. Even so, on mornings when time allows only a hasty slice of toast, I do sometimes find myself dreaming of an egg with a succulent steak beneath it!

Woman's Condition Critical

Skull Fractured In Head-On Crash

A pregnant woman was critically injured in a head-on collision between two cars on Shelbourne Street Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Christine Doehnel, 31, of 8325 West Saanich Road, suffered a fractured skull and multiple facial cuts.

THROWN OUT

Mrs. Doehnel, who is six months pregnant, was hurled against the windshield of the car driven by her husband and then thrown to the street.

Her husband, Eberhart, 36, suffered severe facial cuts in the mishap. He was detained in hospital and is in fairly good condition.

Saanich police identified the driver of the other car in the accident as Pear and Shelbourne as Mrs. Anna Pine, 2739 Avebury.

The 11-year-old son of the Doehnels, Michael, who was in the back seat of their car, was unhurt.

The crash was the worst of several that occurred on slippery streets in Greater Victoria Monday.

GIRL HURT

A two-car collision at Hillside and Rose shortly before 2:30 sent a 12-year-old girl to hospital with a severe facial cut.

Vera Mezger, 135 Durrance Road, was later discharged after treatment. Her mother, Mrs. An Mezger, 45, driver of their car, was also released after treatment for shock.

Police said the other driver was Edward Parrott, 1837 Feltham. He was unhurt.

Early today a two-car accident at Yates and Cook sent William Adamus, 33, of 614 Niagara, to hospital. He was later released. He was a passenger in a car driven by Wasyf Adamus, same address, which was in collision with a vehicle driven by Mark J. Clarke, 16, of 501 Belmont.

A minor collision involving a police car occurred at Gorge and Manchester. No one was injured and damage was minor.

THEY'LL NEED HOT LICKS AND ICE PICKS

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Forty-six Victoria musicians took off today on a 4,000-mile concert tour of the Northwest Territories.

And unless the weather up there improves, they'll be blowing their instruments in below-zero temperatures.

HIGH SPIRITS

It was 17 below at Fort Smith this morning, and the youngsters were in high spirits when they left the Swartz Bay ferry terminal at 11 a.m. They will travel by train to Edmonton, and then by charter flight to Fort Smith.

"We've been looking forward to this for weeks," said Tom Howe, 17-year-old clarinetist, who has played with the S. J. Willis and Mount View bands for the past six years.

"It will be a great experience for us all," said Howard Denike, who will conduct the Mount View band. "None of us has ever been so far north before."

EX-VICTORIAN

Mr. Denike is accompanied by his wife and Phil Fawcett, band manager. They will be met at Fort Smith by Bernard Gillie, former principal of S. J. Willis school and now superintendent of education for the Northwest Territories.

"It should be tremendous fun," said Barbara Reid, 16, who plays alto saxophone.

The general enthusiasm was shared by percussionists Cathy Lavoie, Sandra Murphy, Virginia McKee and Rick Silver.

The youngsters piled their instruments into a truck before boarding the ferry and were laughing and joking about the weather ahead.

Mr. Gillie arranged the tour to give northern students an example of what Victoria can do in the way of band music. They will demonstrate their instruments at school workshops between the concerts.

They will give concerts at Fort Smith Wednesday evening; Yellowknife Thursday and Hay River Friday, returning to Victoria in time for classes next Monday.

The program, which has been intensively rehearsed, includes The Eighth Army March (Eric Coates), the overture The Messiah (Handel), music by Bach; popular musical comedy selections, solos and jingles and vocal ensembles.

Half the cost of the tour is being borne by the Northwest Territories education department; the rest by Mount View parents auxiliary and by student drives, including car-washing, bottle-collecting and concerts.

The Mount View Band won a high award in the Victoria Music Festival last year.

'HOPE THEY DON'T FREEZE,' joked members of Mount View Secondary School Band as they piled their instruments into a truck at the Swartz

Bay ferry. They are embarked on 4,000-mile tour of the Northwest Territories, arranged by Bernard Gillie, formerly of Victoria. (Photo by Strickland)

Civic Leaders Jolted By School Rate Boost

3.62-Mill Increase Surprise to Mayor

Municipal leaders were staggered today by a school mill rate of 23.99, an increase of 3.62 mills over 1964.

"This comes as an unpleasant surprise," Mayor R. B. Wilson commented when the rate was announced by School District 61 this morning.

The mayor noted that school costs must be accepted and are distinct from the general tax rate over which city council has control.

Rates in adjoining school districts were also up, although not as drastically as in Greater Victoria.

Sooke district 62 will have a 1965 rate of 25.18 mills, an increase of 1.43 over 1964; Saanich district 63 (covering rural Saanich to North Saanich) has a rate 3.16 mills higher.

District 63 will have a mill rate of 24.64 compared to 21.48 last year.

Greater Victoria school district set a budget this year of more than $11 million.

'BAD NEWS'

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis referred to the announced rate as "bad news."

He said when the school board was questioned earlier on inclusion of the whole amount for vocational school construction in this year's budget—although spending would be over a period of years—the casual reply was that it would be only about half a mill.

"This is an incredible attitude for them to take," the reeve said.

The provincial school rate average this year is 25.3 mills, compared with 23.41 last year. Greater Victoria and Sooke officials were quick to point out that rates in their districts come below the provincial average.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said the basic school levy of 15.95 mills is unchanged. Local school boards add to this for non-shareable items such as debt retirement, capital programs and some operating expenses.

WON'T PAY MORE

Mr. Peterson said the increased home owner grant (up $15 from 1964) will cover mill rate increases so that ratepayers will not be asked to pay more than 1964.

Details of the Greater Victoria school rate were being worked out by officials who have to take into account federal grants to help of taxes for such things as the Esquimalt naval base.

Provincial grant to the district this year is $4,338,947, an increase of $89,627 based on the same formula as 1964.

Before the individual mill rate is known in each municipality, the school board must pro rate the grant.

Total assessment in Greater Victoria is up $15.1 million to a total of $256,002,200. This means that each mill will raise $256,002 for school purposes.

Vancouver's School District 39 will receive $9,597,907, compared with $8,774,170 last year.

NON-SHAREABLE

Mr. Peterson said that on top of the 15.95 basic mill rate set by the government, B.C.'s school districts are expected to add an average of 6.45 mills for non-shareable costs, up 1.97 mills over last year's average. However, some will be below and others above this average.

He said the total cost of the basic education program in B.C. public schools—in accordance with minimum standards set by the department—this year is estimated to cost $134,123,225 of which the provincial government will provide $70,407,324.

Ratepayers will have to cover the remaining $63,715,901 through the 15.95 mill rate plus a total of $26,613,329 through the additional levy for non-shareable costs.

TOPICS of the DAY

The huge, 42,000-ton P & O Orient liner Oriana will pause off Brochtie Ledge Friday at 3:30 p.m. to pick up pilot en route to Vancouver.

The British cruise ship is inbound from the U.K. via Suez and the South Pacific.

She will sail out of Vancouver Saturday at 6 p.m. for her home port of Southampton via the Panama Canal.

The CNR Alaska cruise ship Prince George will arrive here Wednesday morning with 299 passengers on an 8-day cruise.

It will be the first appearance here for the ship since the summer of 1963 when she was en route to the Seattle World's Fair.

The ship operates out of Vancouver during the summer on cruises to Skagway, Alaska. It is one of the largest passenger cruisers on Canada's west coast.

It will tie up at the CPE dock in the Inner Harbor at 8 a.m. and depart at 11:45 a.m. for a cruise around the island and a trip to Seattle.

Gerry Oulette, 2205 Chambers, told police who arrested him April 15 on Government Street that if he took a breath test it would show he was impaired.

He was right. Oulette registered a blood alcohol count of .20 per cent when tested.

In court today he pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was fined $300. His licence was suspended.

Police said he attracted their attention by twice crossing the centre line on Government and then almost losing control of his car as he turned on to Discovery Street.

An 18-year-old Alberni girl was a good risk for probation even though she tried to fool the court, Magistrate William Ostler said today.

He placed Margaret Hoehn on a $250 bond for two years when she sentenced her on three charges of shoplifting.

He told the girl she lied when she said, on her first appearance, that she was still at school. She said she did it because "I didn't want my parents to find out" about the charges.

The magistrate said Miss Hoehn's pre-sentence report showed she was trying to "prove herself" despite difficulties and is "not afraid of hard work."

REBUILT STATION AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

Police Move Back in August

City police expect to occupy their new Centennial Square home well ahead of schedule.

Police quarters will be first finished in a complex embracing magistrate's courts and lockup.

Little of the finished form will be recognizable, save the exterior walls of the original building.

Policemen are hoping for a moving day in August, although other parts of the Square project may extend into the fall. Target date for completing the police station-courts complex is September 30.

Interior of the police station was virtually gutted, except for the cell block.

NEW LOOK

But with some structural changes, new lighting and complete refinishing, even the jail will look new.

Gone will be the squalor of 60-year cells with their primitive facilities, ingrained odor, dingy, defaced walls and ceilings.

The change might even improve the frame of mind of occupants, one of whom left behind the following immortal inscription as he stood on a stairway waiting to go before the magistrate:

The vilest deeds,
Like poison weeds,
Bloom best on prison air.

But with some structural changes, new lighting and complete refinishing, even the jail will look new.

DEAR ABBY...

Either Sick or Tired!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 36 years and the best thing my husband does is sleep. I practically have to assault him to get him out of bed in the morning for work. The minute he finishes his supper in the evening he falls asleep and I have to fight with him to get him to take his clothes off and go to sleep in the bedroom. It's bad enough that he sleeps so much on work days; but on holidays and week-ends it's even worse. He falls asleep in chairs, on the couch, and even on the floor! It irks me to have him sleeping all over the house when I have house-cleaning to do. Do I have the right to wake him up and tell him to sleep in the bedroom? And does a grown man need that much sleep?

"RIP VAN WINKLE'S WIFE".
DEAR WIFE: First, insist that "Rip" get a thorough physical checkup. Excessive sleep is sometimes a symptom of illness. If your husband is as fit as a fiddle, but just likes to saw wood, work around him, and let him be.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with this man for nearly a year. He works just around the corner from where I work, and that's how we met. I have never met any of his friends or family. I gave him my telephone number but he never gave me his. I have asked him how I could get in touch with him in case of emergency, but he got around it some way and he still didn't give me his number. What do you make of this?

NO NUMBER.

DEAR NO: He could be hiding something—like a wife. Or a live-in companion. I think you already have his number.

DEAR ABBY: While this inquiry might be out of your line, I hope you'll answer. I am a woman of 60, and for the first time in my life I became the proud owner of a mink-stole. The other night my husband remarked that since the stole was so expensive, we could save money by placing it in a plastic bag and storing it in our freezer. That way we wouldn't have to pay to store it at a regular fur storage place. I have never heard of this, have you? I'm afraid if I ask the furrier who sold us the stole he will say it is absolutely necessary to store it at a regular fur storage place (meaning his) because that is part of his business. What do you think?

NO NAME.

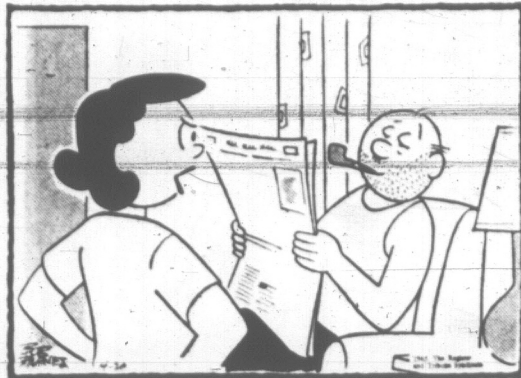

DEAR NO NAME: NEVER, NEVER, NEVER place fur in a freezer! Store the stole in a regular fur storage place. It's a steal!

DEAR ABBY: If "CHEATED" (the baby sitter who complained of being underpaid) is the one who came to our house, ate a pound of candy, two packages of potato chips, half a lemon pie, drank two bottles of beer, and then left with the grocery money, my new white gloves and all my hair rollers, please tell her we won't "cheat" her again. We can't afford her.

SHOPPING GUIDE

This Causes Spirits To Rise—Not Budgets

By PENNY SAVER

A good friend of mine who is going to be married next month and I were discussing her wedding plans over coffee the other day. She was having a few problems; although her wedding gown was completed and ready for the big day, she hadn't decided on outfits for her attendants. As her gown is very simple, she wished the bridesmaids' gowns to provide a contrast—with a bright color or a print. But, she couldn't seem to find the material she wanted.

Penny has a solution for this. In my wanderings about town, I chanced to see some of the most beautiful fabric which would suit her needs perfectly—a wonderful idea for a party ensemble, too.

It is filmy, shimmering chiffon—light as a feather and feminine as perfume. The fabric is splashed with a floral pattern in a myriad of bright hues. But the colors are changeable, too! For an example, take three contrasting tones of satin and place a length of the chiffon over all three. It will take on different and exciting tones from each one. Price of this is $1.79 a yard. It sparkles, too!

Once we finished with that problem, we turned to the next—casual outfits for her honeymoon. Naturally, she wanted something that would travel well and look smart as possible when she was wearing it.

I suggested a cool, light cotton blend I've noticed—one that washes in a minute and is virtually uncrushable. Selling at $2.50 for a yard of 36-inch fabric, this Scottish import can be made into a casual sport ensemble or suit for later in the day. It doesn't take much room in a suitcase and the bright patterns will add a note of color to any occasion.

For slacks or a summer suit, the perfect answer is new loose-knit boucle, selling at $4.95 a yard. This is cool, wonderfully washable—and a seasoned traveller. Loosely woven, it makes an ideal pair of slacks—won't bag and won't bulge. The rough nubby texture won't crease easily, either.

If you're planning a sewing spree, give Penny a call at 582-3131 and find out where she shopped.

Handicrafts Display Highlights Conference Held at Brentwood

A display of handicrafts highlighted the recent spring conference of south Vancouver Island district Women's Institutes held in the WI hall, Brentwood Bay.

Mrs. H. G. Scott, president, chaired the meeting. Board members present were Miss M. McKecknie, secretary; Mrs. H. Hilliard, Miss V. Sallis and Mrs. E. Robinson.

Mrs. Scott stressed that her conference theme of "Get up and do it" should be applied to projects all year.

Mrs. D. Grimmer, agriculture convener, spoke on the growth and uses of herbs. She reported that the Almey crabapple tree would be planted in Beacon Hill Park in honor of Mrs. Alfred Watt.

Nutrition for the elderly was topic of a talk given by Mrs. E. Anderson, health convener.

Mrs. J. T. Jones, home economics convener discussed freezing and freezer wrappings.

Citizenship convener, Mrs. C. Claxton spoke of the needs of the British Columbia Indians in the changing economy. She praised the work and hopes of the Vancouver Indian society centre.

Help to poorer nations by the WI was the subject of a report given by Mrs. H. Emery, United Nation's convener.

Before the serving of a box luncheon, N. Putnam from the department of agriculture, provincial government, gave a talk on the control of weeds.

Mrs. G. Tatton was elected director to the district board. Tea was served by the members of the Brentwood WI.

Years Ago Perfume Made At Home by Using Flowers

Perfume is an ancient cosmetic which was used by both men and women in the earliest civilizations. During those periods in history when bathing was thought to be unhealthy it was doused on those who could afford it. It was often made at home by crushing and distilling flowers.

Today making perfume is a complicated process involving pure flower or fruit extracts, synthetic oils, bases such as musk, civet, ambergris or castor and fixative such as balsam. And, today, perfume is a usual part of a woman's glamor equipment.

In this column I am bringing you some more information and hints from the owner of a Paris shop which sells all the famous brands.

If you use an atomizer, take care. Perfume and cologne will stain some fabrics, pearls and costume jewelry. Do not spray it on tinted hair. The alcohol may affect the color.

Many women are confused about the difference between perfume, toilet water and cologne. Perfume is the purest essence of a particular scent. Toilet water is diluted and less strong. Cologne is lightest of all.

All three of these should be kept in a cool dark place rather than on the dressing table. Light and heat destroy the fragrance. A drawer in a fairly cool room is a good place. If you must have it in a more

Diplomat to Speak

Belgian ambassador to Canada, Baron Guy Dauterive de la Chevalerie, will speak to the Women's Canadian Club, Wednesday at 2:30 p.m., in the Empress Hotel. His topic will be "A New Climate in International Affairs."

Baron de la Chevalerie served on General D. MacArthur's staff in the Pacific during the Second World War and with the general staff of the Allied powers in Tokyo. Later he was Belgian observer in Manchuria, China and Tibet. Former diplomatic posts have been Belgian minister in Washington and ambassador to Pakistan.

Forecast... Showers

Happily, the April showers we welcome this month are those gay events designed to fête the brides-to-be... occasions frequently calling for fancy little sandwiches. A dash of dry mustard, a sprinkling of celery salt, garlic salt, caraway seeds or celery seeds creamed into the butter does wonders to perk up the flavor of those dainty sandwiches.

Saled Switch

Prefer salads to sandwiches? The dressing "makes" the salad in most cases, and dairy sour cream "makes" the dressing for a variety of salads. Sweeten it with a little honey and add some finely chopped preserved ginger and chopped pecans for crunch... perfect for chicken or fruit salads.

Time-Saver

If the salad calls for a mayonnaise dressing, mix it half and half with whipped cream... makes it much lighter and creamier. For fruit salads a little maraschino cherry juice adds a touch of color and a bit of extra flavor.

Hot Salad

Chicken salad, the perennial favorite, gets a new twist when served hot. Just turn your very best salad mixture, dressing and all, into a pretty casserole dish and bake in a 350°F. oven, 25 minutes. Sprinkle with a cup of shredded Canadian Cheddar cheese and return to the oven until the cheese melts.

Sweet Treat

Chocolate bon bons disappear from the candy dish magically. The smooth creamy centers are made by melting a 6-ounce package of semi-sweet chocolate pieces over boiling water. Then stir in a small can of evaporated milk, and cook over boiling water, stirring frequently, about 30 minutes. The mixture should be very thick. Chill thoroughly, so the chocolate is easy to handle, shape into small balls and roll in coconut.

Oak Bay Crosses Border for Show

TWEED CURTAIN RUNG UP

Laughter echoed through the ballroom, dining room and lobby of the Empress Hotel, Saturday afternoon, as three models from "behind the Tweed Curtain" of Oak Bay "gate-crashed" the Spring Flower Festival Fashion Show, sponsored by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

In an attempt to show that "Oak Bay is up-to-the-minute in the fashion scene," three residents piqued about the daffodil-bedecked runway in the ballroom to the strains of "There'll Always be an England."

One gentleman chose tweed jacket, baggy trousers, vest and brogues, topped with an English motoring cap. The finishing touch was a yards-long gaily red and white striped boating scarf, wound about the neck and drifting sedately to the floor. Haute couture for ladies was a heavy moth-eaten fur and rusty black gown. Rounding out the trio was the sporting ensemble of peaked cap and knickerbockers, accented by binoculars for bird-watching.

Men and women alike crowded the Empress for tea and a look at the latest fashions for both sexes, supplied by local stores, designers, milliners and salons—including a group of Canadian Couturier designers.

Fulfilling the theme of the festival—"Victoria, the flower basket by the sea"—colors were bright and gay as spring blossoms—as illustrated by one model in a two-piece silk print of muted blues, pink and turquoise. Accessories, including a hat of swirls of toning georgette.

TOWN OUTFIT

Designed for a warm summer day in town was an A-line afternoon ensemble, styled sleeveless, with a bateau neckline, and splashed with tiny roses in a front panel and sprinkled about the white background. A bright, paddy-green cloche with perky red floral accent, completed the outfit.

For a more tailored look, a grey and white check suit was shown, with the check echoed in the polished straw hat, accented with a wide georgina ribbon banding the crown and flying away to the side. Opposite side of the hem tipped up perkily.

The "hostess with the mostest" appeared in a haughty-inspired set of pantaloons and fitted top.

Lorraine Tippet Married In Double-Ring Ceremony

Baskets of yellow gladioli and white carnations decorated St. Mary's Anglican Church, Saturday evening, when Canon Hywel J. Jones officiated at the double-ring ceremony uniting Lorraine Verna Tippet and Robert Francis Grute in marriage.

Organist was C. Palmer. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. W. Tippet, 2487 Florence Street. The groom's parents are Mrs. Arthur C. Hancock, Lake Cowichan, and Thomas Grute, Winnipeg.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of silk peau d'ange, styled slightly in train. The fitted bodice featured a bateau neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. Re-embroidered appliques highlighted the full skirt. Her tiered silk veil misted from a coronet of seed pearls and crystals. Jewelry was pearl drop earrings. Yellow roses, green ivy and white hyacinths were in her cascade bouquet.

A gown of turquoise-nylon sheer over taffeta was worn by maid of honor, Miss Pearl Tippet, and she carried a bou-quet of yellow and white carnations. Similar gowns were worn by bridesmaid, Mrs. C. Patterson, and bridesmaid, Miss Gail Robson. White carnations were in their bouquets. All wore toning bow headpieces.

M. Philip Trace was best man. Guests were ushered to pews marked with white satin ribbon by Gary McPhee and Sodi Berar.

A white bell, surrounded by lace net, topped the three-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table for the reception which followed in Holyrood House. The cake was made by the bride's mother. White candles, yellow rosebuds and ivy completed table decorations.

The groom's father proposed the toast to the bride. For travelling on a honeymoon trip to California, the bride donned a two-piece wool crepe suit, topped with a navy blue tailored coat. A pink floral hat, navy accessories and white cymbidium orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

The couple will make their home in Lake Cowichan.

Delegates from all parts of the province will be in Victoria this week to attend the three-day 43rd annual session of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association. Right Worshipful Grand Lodge of British Columbia. The session will be held at the Empress Hotel, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Mrs. Winnifred Kirkland, North Surrey, will preside.

Local degree teams, headed by Purple Star Lodge, Britannia Lodge and Pride of Victoria Junior Lodge, will exemplify their work. Presiding officers are Mrs. L. Hamilton, Mrs. M. Beckley and Miss L. Knowles.

On Thursday afternoon, local lodges will sponsor a tea in honor of the visitors. A past mistress dinner will be held in the evening. The dinner speaker will be Mrs. Pearl Steen, president of the National Council of Women. Mrs. Bert Noel is in charge of arrangements.

Following divine service, Friday's session will begin with a special seating of officers' drill.

First Bursary For Adult Education

The Alden Hamber Chapter IOOE will award the first bursary to be given to help Victoria students in the evening adult education plan of the Greater Victoria School Board. At a recent meeting, members voted to set aside $100 for this purpose, the motion being made by Mrs. J. S. White, educational secretary.

Other monies voted were: Books for the art department of the University of Victoria, $50; equipment for the Elford Occupational Centre for Retarded Children, $100; bursary for a technical student attending a university or the British Columbia Institute of Technology, $100.

On the recommendation of Mrs. E. Haywood, services at home and abroad, members agreed to buy equipment valued at $150 for the Victoria Handicapped Children's Clinic (the former cerebral palsy clinic) and to give two National Geographic Magazine subscriptions to the Veterans' Hospital. The sum of $117 was approved to assist with provincial and national IOOE projects.

Treasurer, Mrs. M. Campbell reported a bank balance of $1,025.59. Mrs. Elsie Lowthian was appointed delegate for the national annual meeting.

The meeting was held in the Beach Drive home of Mrs. G. Harris, with refreshments being served by Mrs. Herbert Barnes.

Jamaica Farewell

Mrs. W. C. Woodward has returned to her home at Brentwood after a three-week holiday in Jamaica. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. A. L. Wilson of Coburg, Ont.

Hawaiian Theme

Home-cooked food with an Hawaiian flavor will be featured when the Women's Committee to the Royal Victoria Yacht Club holds an Hawaiian luncheon in the clubhouse. The affair will begin at noon on Thursday, April 29. Bridge will also be played.

Wedding Day

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Akins, 2535 Shelbourne Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Jean, to Mr. Denis A. Cliff, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cliff, 953 Wollaston Street. The marriage will take place this coming Friday at 8 p.m. in St. Aidan's Church. The groom-elect is a 1965 graduate of the University of Victoria.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Substituting today for ailing Dorothy Kilgallen is veteran Broadway columnist Louis Sobol.

By LOUIS SOBOLO

NEW YORK—Word comes to me that the editors of that great reference book, "Who's Who in America," are going to screen future entries carefully. Too many I am told, answering the usual questionnaire are not too conscientious about revealing their actual birth dates or birthplace—and in some instances, exaggerate a bit about their accomplishments. Hitherto, the editors have not deemed this caution necessary since candidates for inclusion in the book have been considered notables who would ordinarily be on their honor to be completely truthful. But, of course, there was the memorable instance of the convict swindler F. Donald Coster of the notorious McKesson and Robbins case whose information to "Who's Who" was for much of it, quite fictional—for when the case exploded it was revealed he was actually Philip Musca—a one-time bootlegger and ex-convict who by sheer genius had gained control of the multimillion dollar drug firm.

You'd never consider the Duke of Windsor a song-plugger but he must be credited with an assist in starting a Hodgers and Hart tune off to a resounding success—the now memorable "My Heart Stood Still." It was one of the numbers in a Cochrane revue in London but the audience paid more attention on opening night to the Prince of Wales than to the stage activities with the result that few were aware whether it was a good show or not. A few days later, Wales, at a private affair, asked the orchestra to play the song—whistling it and even singing a few lines to guide them. The orchestra didn't have the music—tumbled about in the playing of the song. Word went around and two days later the lyrics were printed on Page One of two British newspapers—and soon all England was singing the song. Then it was thrust into "Connecticut Yankee" on Broadway—and became one of America's top songs.

"The trouble with Broadway is that too many phonies think the way to a man's heart—is through his back." Just a swifty typical of so many other trite cracks—and they usually creep into columns like this. But this I have learned in my more than three decades as a Manhattan historian—in any emergency, Broadway is foremost in contributing its assistance. Its talented citizens—stage, night club, radio and television personalities—freely offer their talents to the many benefactors—but more than that, are heavy donors to any charity. Performers are the softest touch where any worthwhile cause is involved. But, of course, little paragraphs like this, extolling Broadway's goodness, make for dull reading.

When They Were Children: Martha Raye: The kid who would swallow an all-day sucker in one gulp... Boris Karloff: He brought little girls into the room where the lights were out and rubbed sulphur matches on the wall so they'd scream... Cary Grant: He made the teacher stay after school...

The Duchess of Windsor: She refused to take history seriously... Milton Berle: The noisiest kid on the block... Fred Astaire: He moped on the corner as one little girl after another refused to dance with him.

It's past history now—but years ago, the columnists and humorists (and there is a distinction) organized a "union" of their own—called it the American Press Humorists. Among members were O. O. McIntyre, K. C. Beaton, Franklin P. Adams, Irvin S. Cobb, Rube Goldberg, Don Marquis, Elia Hubbard, Grantland Rice and others. By coincidence, every time the Humorists convened in different cities, the National Association of Undertakers also held a convention—on the same day, usually in the same town. You could tell who were the undertakers—they looked happier. The American Press Humorists disbanded when their members began to hiss each other and toss accusations that their gags were being pilfered by fellow members.

PET POINTS

By Dr. J. R. Enos

WILL YOU STOP THAT TAPPING SO I CAN SLEEP!

Do Birds Have Ears?

Yes, and a well developed sense of hearing which is essential for preservation in a natural state. The ears may not be visible, but they are located just in back of the eyes.

Q: Unfortunately, my boy friend saw "Night of the Iguana" and bought me one for a pet. It's cute, though. Can you tell me what to feed an iguana?

A. Yes, young iguanas can be cute, but I wonder what you will think when your pet grows to full size—which can be six feet or more. While you are deciding that, feed your pet fruits and vegetables of all kinds. Iguanas are vegetarians, but occasionally you can feed them strips of raw, lean meat.

Q: The baby turtle we bought several weeks ago just doesn't seem to get enough to eat. He is always hungry. Is this normal?

A. Yes, it is normal. Young turtles are blessed with tremendous appetites, and they also like variety, so vary his daily diet. Feed him vegetables, fruit, raw fish, raw lean meat, chicken and earthworms.

Q: My parakeet always looks tired. He doesn't sleep during the day, and he chirps away all night. When does he sleep?

A. Your parakeet sounds like some people I know—on the go all the time. Your pet must be regulated. Cover his cage at night so that he can get some sleep.

Q: My dog's eyes have been running for some time—I bathe them constantly with boric acid but the running continues. Do you think he has a cold in the eyes?

A. No, I think he has a severe eye infection which should be referred to your veterinarian without delay. Home treatment of minor scratches may be all right, but when you delay professional treatment of such serious matters as running eyes, you risk putting your dog in jeopardy.

Q: We have a rock bomber lizard, about 12 inches long. She is quite tame and we have a collar and leash for her when we go out. We feed her grasshoppers now and keep her in a box in the house. However, what do we do next winter? Can we keep her from hibernating by keeping her in the house in a box of sand? If so, what should we feed her? We could keep her in an outdoor shed, but would that be too cold for her?

A. Keeping your lizard in the house this winter will prevent hibernation. Since she is not in her natural habitat, where she can burrow deep into the sand and rocks for protection, it would be risky to keep her in an outdoor shed, particularly during extremely cold spells. For diet, lizards are insect eaters. Flies make a good diet. Incidentally, do not be alarmed if she doesn't eat for several weeks after a substantial meal of flies.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and at the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Ralph Heist, age 9, of Shawnee, Okla., for his question:

How much salt is in one gallon of sea water?

There are enough salty chemicals in the seas to spread a thick layer of frosting over all the dry land. This crusty layer would be 500 feet deep, and this depth equals almost one-tenth mile. But the sea stole all these salts from the land, and it is not likely to give them all back to us.

A gallon of Atlantic Ocean water is a little saltier than a gallon of Arctic Ocean water. Water from the middle of the North Atlantic contains a little more salt than the water off the shores of New England. The oceans of the world are linked together, and their tossing waters mix and mingle. Nevertheless, some seas are a little saltier than others. The amount of salt would depend upon where we took our sample gallon.

Let's take a gallon of average

Many Chemicals In Sea Water

To most people salt is those gritty little white grains in the salt shaker. The chemist's name for this salt is sodium chloride. He knows of many other chemical salts. He can separate more than five different salts from our sea water chemicals. The largest pile would be table salt. There would be almost a table-spoonful of a salt called magnesium chloride. There would be a teaspoonful of each of the three salty chemicals known as magnesium sulphate, calcium sulphate and potassium sulphate.

Our gallon of sea water could give us six table-spoons of table salt, plus a few atoms of iron and lead, tin and copper mixed with the solid substances. Chances are there would be smidgens of silver and gold too small to find or be of any value.

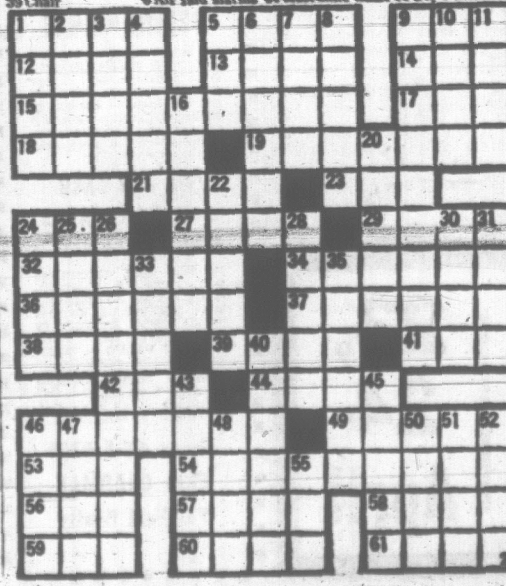

A cubic mile of water fills a tank a mile long, a mile high and a mile wide. There are about 166 million tons of salty chemicals in this enormous amount of sea water. About 124.5 million tons of this material is dissolved table salt, known as sodium chloride. But there is 320 million times more table salt than this dissolved in the seas. For the interlocking oceans of the world are filled with a few other chemicals. There's salty sea water.

Clarence has to be fed a formula of milk, sugar and water every two hours and Kathy's getting tired. (AP Wirephoto)

N.Y. World's Fair Re-Opens Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP)—The weeks of planning and refurbishing are ended. At exactly 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, the New York World's Fair re-opens.

The $1,000,000,000 international exposition will be launched on its second and final six-month season with scores of dignitaries scheduled to join in opening-day ceremonies. Included are Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey and Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin.

The fair this year is billed as a bigger and better exposition than in 1964 with emphasis on more admission-free exhibits and light entertainment.

Fair President Robert Moses predicted 37,500,000 persons would visit it before the gates close Oct. 21.

Unlike last year, the fair this year will offer dance hall entertainment, games of skill, "family geared" girlie shows and regular can-can performances.

Back again will be the large industrial exhibits dotting the 646-acre site.

Also on display again will be priceless art treasures in many of the foreign pavilions and church-sponsored exhibits.

to all WRITERS in this area...

A representative of a well-known New York book publisher will soon be in Victoria to interview writers. His purpose is to uncover manuscripts worthy of publication. Fiction, non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, collections of short stories or articles, religious, specialized and even controversial subjects, will be considered.

If you have a book-length manuscript ready for publication (or are still working on it) and would like to discuss it with this executive, please telephone 383-9126 between 8:00 a.m. and 10:00 p.m., and leave your name and address. You will be contacted, later, to arrange for a definite appointment.

JUNIOR TATTOO

Hospitality Asked For May Visitors

Victoria Kiwanis clubs are seeking overnight accommodation for 460 boys and girls of the Fraser Valley Junior Tattoo which will visit here May 1.

The tattoo composed of bands, drill teams and marching units will present two shows at Memorial Arena.

"Five hundred of the more than 1,000 boys and girls are also military cadets and will be guests of the navy at HMCS Naden. Billets are needed for the remaining visitors.

Committee chairman Allan Potter says he has received only a handful of commitments.

NON-PROFIT

"The group is a privately sponsored non-profit organization which attempts to develop a sense of discipline, co-ordination and participation in the children," Mr. Potter says.

"We are anxious for anyone who feels hospitable enough to help these youngsters to come forward."

The group will arrive in Victoria at about 11 a.m. Saturday. The children must be picked up following the matinee performance. The hosts should provide them with dinner, then return them to the arena for the evening show. The children will also require overnight accommodation and breakfast Sunday morning.

Mr. Potter asks "how many can you take?" And if you can, phone 382-7221 or 384-0514.

School Contract

A $38,000 contract for an addition to Sir James Douglas School has been awarded to H. E. Fowler and Sons Ltd.

It was the lowest bid received by the Greater Victoria School Board.

'Accentuate the Positive' Publisher Tells Canadians

Canadians need a more positive view of life if the country is to make rapid progress says F. G. Brander, publisher of Maclean's Magazine.

In Victoria on a business trip to tie-in with the next issue of the magazine featuring British Columbia's economic boom, Mr. Brander said Canadians tend to forget their country's achievements.

"It is so easy to forget that as a country we are making progress and that the government is making real strides in the long term development of Canada," he said.

'FULL TOGETHER'

"We are at a critical period in our history and there is so much possible for us if we learn to pull together."

Mr. Brander said that on his cross country travels he has learned that Canadians were at last starting to think nationally.

"Gradually, slowly, the west is starting to understand what French Canadians are concerned about and the people of Quebec are starting to realize that the west, too, has problems," he said.

"There is still much to be done but progress is being made and I am strong on the Canadian future."

Mr. Brander said Canadians could help the nation's cause if they traveled more within Canadian boundaries.

EXPLORE CANADA

"I just wish the average Canadian could find time to explore his own country before he heads for other countries," he said.

"Conditions are already improving between east and western Canada. They would improve even more if the ordinary man from east and west could spend two or three weeks a year in the province that puzzles him. Most of our problems, I am sure, would soon disappear if we just understood each other better."

Mr. Brander said his magazine with its 550,000 circulation had a definite policy along these lines.

"We are striving now and shall continue to strive to introduce Canadians to their country."

'FACTUAL WAY'

"This is why in our next issue we have the big spread on B.C. We think it is important that other Canadians realize what is going on in this province, and we have tried to tell the story in a factual way with emphasis on the positive."

Mr. Brander was reluctant to comment on the interim report of the Bi and Bi commission which painted a gloomy picture of Canada's future as a united nation.

"You must remember that it was just an interim report," he said. "I do wonder if we have placed over-emphasis on the negatives and neglected the so many positive statements made in it."

He said that in his opinion the commission had been a success "even if it only made us think

Welcome
At Maclean's

The publisher of Maclean's denied charges that the magazine was reluctant to publish the works of new writers.

"The criticism has been made in various places at various times," said F. G. Brander. "It just isn't true. We are always looking for new writers and encourage them to submit work to us."

Mr. Brander said that during the past year 30 new writers had their work published by Maclean's.

BREAK RULE

"We are always on the lookout for new talent in the feature writing field," he said. "As a general rule we do not publish fiction, but we would be happy to break that rule at times when the work is exceptional."

For French writers the Maclean's field is wider.

"Le Magazine Maclean's, publishing 165,000 copies a month in French and run by a completely independent editorial staff, does run short stories in French," he said. "Here again it is the policy to encourage new talent."

Island-Hop to England Planned by 'Copter Firm

VANCOUVER (CP) — Okanagan Helicopters Ltd., one of the world's largest helicopter firms, Monday announced plans to fly a new machine across the Atlantic in the first such hop by a commercial helicopter.

The firm said the new Sikorsky 61N will be flown 3,920 miles from New York to Gatwick airport near London by Langley B.C. pilot Tommy Scheer, accompanied by Okanagan's senior engineer, Keith Rutledge, 45, of Richmond, B.C.

The chopper will make some 12 fuel stops with the co-operation of the U.S. air force and the Shell Oil Company in its trans-Atlantic flight to carry out a contract to service offshore oil rigs in the North sea. The flight will last about three days.

"It will cost a lot of money but we think it will be cheaper than going by ship," said an Okanagan company spokesman. The spokesman said he believes the U.S. air force has flown helicopters trans-Atlantic but this would be the first such trip by a commercial machine.

He added the trip would give the 'copter "a good workout and it will show we are not scared of the sea."

The new Sikorsky, capable of carrying 27 passengers, is turbine-powered, and amphibious. The flight is scheduled to begin from New York May 2 or May 3 with stops planned at Montreal, Frobisher, Greenland, Iceland, the Faroe Islands, Prestwick, Scotland, and then Gatwick. It will never fly more than 200 miles from land, hopping from island to island.

The company reported a gross 1964 revenue of more than $1,500,000. The annual report showed net profit at $293,419 compared with $237,146 in 1963.

Aircraft operating expenses during the year increased $638,000 to $2,600,000.

Murder Charge Laid

SALMON ARM (CP) — RCMP Monday laid a charge of capital murder against Felix Allan, 64, in connection with the weekend death of George Sampson on the Salmon Arm Indian Reserve.

Giant Auction Saturday In Saanich

An old-time country-style auction will be held Saturday night in the heart of rural Saanich.

Third annual auction of the Prospect Lake District Community Association will be held at its new hall on Sparion Road, one block east of West Saanich road.

Professional auctioneer Brooke Tomlin will start the bidding rolling at 7 p.m. on items such as garden plants, implements, furniture, books and numerous others.

Hundreds have attended the previous auctions and the ladies' auxiliaries will be ready with refreshments for this year's crowd.

Volunteers now are working hard collecting the donated articles — scooped from country attics and greenhouses — which will be sold to the highest bidders to help pay off the community hall's mortgage.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

Pearson on East-West Tensions

Viet Key To World Accord

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson, although noting continuing co-operation between East and West in world forums, views immediate prospects for improved international understanding as "not encouraging."

Mr. Pearson was replying to six written questions on international matters put to him by The Associated Press, the United States news-gathering agency.

He was asked, in his opinion, if prospects for international understanding are better or worse than a year ago?

These matters, he replied, could not be assessed in time periods of 12 months. In some ways prospects were better, in others worse.

"As regards East-West relations immediate prospects are not encouraging particularly because of the Viet Nam crisis."

"Nevertheless, the West continues to co-operate with the Communist states in many international forums and if peace can be restored in Viet Nam I am optimistic that over the long term real progress can be made in furthering East-West understanding."

Greater Co-operation Seen

The past year had seen the first United Nations conference on trade and development and creation of permanent machinery to further its work. This was a "very important move which should lead to greater understanding and co-operation in solving the problems of the less-developed countries."

Another question asked: The Chinese People's Republic now possesses a nuclear weapon. In view of this, how do you assess the CPR's role in the world, particularly with regard to its exclusion from UN membership?

Mr. Pearson thought the question needed clarifying.

Ignore Certain Principles

Peking's exclusion from the UN did not arise from the "military or national weakness of that regime" but from the "effect on the minds of other governments of its apparent unwillingness to recognize and abide by certain principles, the chief of which is the right of the inhabitants of Formosa to self-determination and appropriate international status."

The "aggressive ideological policies of Communist China" would become "more dangerous when China is a nuclear power." Such possession would also increase Peking's prestige "especially among Asian and African states."

It would also give strength to the argument that it should be admitted to the UN "so that it can be forced to explain and defend its policies before the world assembly and take its share of responsibility for international efforts toward disarmament and security."

He was asked, as one closely associated in the past with solutions to dangerous international crises, notably the Suez affair, if he thought there is a prospect for peaceful solutions in Indo-China or in the Indonesia-Malaysia dispute?

The prime minister said there is always the prospect for every international dispute. Although these two "seem intractable" with a minimum of goodwill and trust they could be solved.

'Neither Honorable Or Lasting'

The Viet Nam conflict was complicated "by its exploitation by international communism and the intervention of the U.S.A. to help South Viet Nam resist aggression."

A solution in Indo-China would involve "arrangements for ensuring the independence, neutrality and territorial integrity of the countries forming part of the region." Laos, Cambodia and South Viet Nam "should be permitted to pursue their goals in peace and security, free of the threat of aggression and subversion promoted by authorities outside their borders."

"Any 'solution' based on capitulation to aggression would be neither honorable nor lasting." The basic requirement in Viet Nam would appear to be a decision by North Viet Nam "to desist from their present policies and to leave their neighbors alone."

In the Indonesia-Malaysia dispute, Canada was concerned and worried "by the policy of confrontation adopted by Indonesia against its neighbor."

Mr. Pearson was asked, has been unable to vote its 1965 budget for fear of forcing the issue of Article 19 on penalties for non-payment of arrears by some nations. As a former president of the UN, how do you view its future as a peace-keeping organization against the background of this issue and others, including last year's Congo crisis?

Mr. Pearson: "You should remember that the framers of the UN charter assumed that the great powers would have the primary responsibility for keeping the peace. In the light of the history of postwar disagreement between the great powers the UN has compiled a remarkable record of keeping"

Flooding in Dakota Reduces Red Peak

WINNIPEG (CP)—Heavy flooding by the Red River in North Dakota will reduce the anticipated peak flows in Manitoba, Premier Roblin said today.

The premier said an overflow of water which created a lake 12 miles wide south of Drayton, N.D., would result in lower crests in this province.

Agriculture Minister George Hutton has said a delayed crest was a disadvantage because it meant a longer period in which there could be a heavy rainfall. The weather office said today there was no indication of significant precipitation within the next 36 hours.

HUNDREDS OF VOLUNTEERS work on a narrow dike that protects Winona, a city of 25,000, from the flooding Mississippi River. Collapse of the dike would result in the flooding of an estimated three-fourths of the city. (AP Wirephoto)

GAS TANK TILTS

Town in Grip Of Fire Peril

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP)—A tilting storage tank laden with 107,000 gallons of gasoline added an awesome fire peril today to the woes of La Crosse, braced for the record crest sweeping down the Mississippi River Valley.

U.K. BACKS SOVIET CALL FOR PARLEY

LONDON (UPI)—Britain will back the Soviet Union's call for an international conference on the neutralization of Cambodia as a possible starting point for Viet Nam peace talks, diplomatic sources indicated today.

Britain has informed the Soviets that it is giving the proposal "careful study," it was reported. Sir Humphrey Trevelyan, the British ambassador in Moscow, met with Russian diplomats last weekend.

A formal decision was expected shortly, possibly by next week, after further soundings with interested nations.

"God, can you imagine fire moving along on this crest," said a police officer assigned to the emergency guard over the tank farm where a total of 15,000,000 gallons of gasoline are stored.

A 75-foot rupture in a protecting dike poured eight feet of water over the tank area Monday, and Fire Chief Fred Genz, Sr., said the "potential danger" increased with the exposure of the tanks to flood debris.

While the self-sealing tanks are not leaking, the water around them is coated by an oil slick from a nearby auto junk yard.

The Mississippi climbed to 17.4 feet, more than five feet over flood stage at La Crosse, as it swept downriver.

SEAL MANHOLES

Deep sea diving equipment was ferried across the Mississippi by National Guardsmen from Eau Claire, Wis., to Winona where volunteer divers placed an inflatable fabric bag in a manhole to seal off the flow. Two other sewers were to be plugged the same way.

The river was expected to crest today at Winona at 21½ feet, 8½ feet above flood level, and crest at 18 feet at La Crosse Monday.

Special nurses have been on duty constantly and his parents have made frequent visits. John has a broken neck, two fractures of the jaw and other head injuries.

Mrs. Alice Horan, the girl's mother, said today:

"The doctors have given us no reason for hope or for repair."

Said Mrs. Kloot: "At first doctors said they could give us no hope but now we have been told he could wake up in a month or two."

Red China Warns Of 'Preparations'

Terrorist Bomb Rips Bar

SAIGON (CP)—The loss of a U.S. Navy Skyraider over North Viet Nam and the explosion of a terrorist bomb today pushed the American casualty toll in the Viet Nam war higher as officials investigated a possible Communist attempt to capture Premier Phan Huy Quat.

A U.S. 7th Fleet spokesman said the Skyraider pilot was killed today when his propeller-driven aircraft crashed while making a pass over a group of trucks along Highway 1, about 50 miles north of the border.

Seventeen South Vietnamese were killed, 38 wounded and four American servicemen injured when a Communist Viet Cong bomb ripped through a bar at Ban Me Thuot, about 160 miles northeast of Saigon, Monday night.

The Viet Cong killed an American civilian and several South Vietnamese in an ambush of a construction crew on the Bien Hoa Highway just north of Saigon Monday night.

He was an employee of the Hydro-technic Corporation, a private firm hired by the U.S. aid mission to install a new water line into the capital.

GLAST GUERRILLAS

Forty U.S. jet bombers and fighter-bombers blasted fortified Viet Cong positions less than 30 miles south of the strategic Da Nang air base as a major clash between government troops and guerrillas continued.

Pilots of the U.S. planes—F-4 Phantoms, B-57 Canberra bombers and F-100 Super-Sabres—reported they knocked out one anti-aircraft gun emplacement, destroyed six buildings, caused secondary explosions and started large fires.

They also reported seeing Viet Cong trenches filled with bodies after the strike.

It was also disclosed that two South Vietnamese Air Force Skyraiders were shot down near the North Vietnamese city of Vinh, 150 miles inside the border.

WIRE BRIEFS

Delegation Withdraws

Children Burned

STEPHENVILLE, N.D. (CP)—Two children died and five other persons are in hospital following a fire which destroyed a single-storey frame dwelling at nearby Kippens Monday.

Extend Winter Works

OTTAWA (CP)—The winter works incentive program will be extended a month to May 31 for projects delayed because of bad weather, the labor department announced today.

B.C. Man Victim

TERRACE BAY, Ont. (AP)—J. Elzeir Dallaire, 61, of B.C. was the second victim of a passenger train derailment near this northwestern Ontario community Saturday, police said today.

MacMILLAN

MacMillan Threatened

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two young holdup men pushed lumber magnate H. R. MacMillan 79, into a closet today, then fled empty-handed from his palatial Vancouver home.

Police said the pair knocked on the door of the home, and when he answered it in person, one of them waved a cleaver-type knife and demanded $150,000.

Mr. MacMillan told them he had no such amount of money in the house. He was pushed into a closet and the holdup men were frightened off by sounds in the house, apparently made by the cook.

Mr. MacMillan was apparently uninjured.

Prairies Shivering And White

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta and Saskatchewan shivered in below normal temperatures today and shuddered at the prospect of more cold and snow.

The temperature dropped to three degrees below zero early today at Fort McMurray, 250 miles northeast of Edmonton. Grande Prairie in the Peace River area reported six degrees.

Edmonton had 15 degrees and light snow. It was 18 in Calgary, 17 at Prince Albert and 26 in Regina.

Generally, temperatures were 20 to 25 degrees below normal. The weather office predicted continued cold weather and some snow.

Ex-Envoy Named

OTTAWA (UPI)—R. A. J. Phillips, 43, one-time Canadian diplomat in Moscow and wartime intelligence officer, has been named second in command of the government's war-on-poverty.

Aussies Give Lodge Peaceful Reception

CANBERRA (Reuters)—White House envoy Henry Cabot Lodge met with Australian cabinet ministers here for 2½ hours today on the second leg of an Asian discussion tour of the Viet Nam situation.

His visit to Australia was routine, contrasting with a stormy reception in New Zealand Monday where he was plagued by demonstrators who harassed him with petitions.

Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies said the former American ambassador to Saigon "contributed to the already very great degree of agreement between Australia and the United States."

Troops Readied If War Grows

TOKYO (AP)—China called today for "full preparations" to send Chinese troops into the Vietnamese war if the United States escalates the fighting and the Vietnamese people call for help.

A Peking broadcast said the standing committee of the National Peoples Congress (parliament) ordered the preparations in the form of a resolution adopted unanimously this afternoon.

"In the name of the 650,000,000 Chinese people," the resolution said, "the standing committee of the National Peoples Congress of China today solemnly passed a resolution calling on the People's organizations and their people throughout China to make full preparations to send their own people to fight together with the Vietnamese people and drive out the U.S. aggressors in the event that U.S. imperialism continues to escalate its war of aggression and the Vietnamese people need them."

The legislative body is empowered to decide on the proclamation of a state of war.

"The Chinese government and the Chinese people have solemnly declared that aggression by U.S. imperialism against the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam means aggression against China."

FULFIL OBLIGATIONS

"The Chinese people have always been infinitely loyal in fulfilling their proletarian internationalist obligations; they always mean what they say. Both past and present struggles testify to this."

In the fall of 1950, China sent "volunteers" into the Korean War.

The Chinese expressed support for North Vietnamese appeal which called, among other things, for a halt in U.S. air strikes on North Viet Nam and the withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Viet Nam.

"We maintain that the necessary conditions for a political settlement of the Viet Nam problem can be created only by forcing the United States to withdraw all its armed forces from Viet Nam," the resolution said.

Volunteers From Indonesia

JAKARTA (AP)—Premier Pham Van Dong of North Viet Nam was reported today to have discussed here the eventual dispatch of Indonesian "volunteers" to Viet Nam.

Pham Van Dong arrived here Friday in connection with the 10th anniversary celebrations of the African-Asian Bandung conference.

Aussies Give Lodge Peaceful Reception

CANBERRA (Reuters)—White House envoy Henry Cabot Lodge met with Australian cabinet ministers here for 2½ hours today on the second leg of an Asian discussion tour of the Viet Nam situation.

His visit to Australia was routine, contrasting with a stormy reception in New Zealand Monday where he was plagued by demonstrators who harassed him with petitions.

Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies said the former American ambassador to Saigon "contributed to the already very great degree of agreement between Australia and the United States."

States on the questions of checking aggression in Viet Nam." Lodge said his meeting, with the defence and foreign affairs committee of Menzies' cabinet, brought him some "sagacious advice."

He said he did not make any specific proposals to the Australian government.

Lodge, on a six-nation tour to explain U.S. Viet Nam policy to friendly governments, said he had "very useful" talks with New Zealand Prime Minister Keith Holyoake and his cabinet.

He said he "requested advice and was given some very interesting opinions" by the New Zealanders.

North Viet, U.S. Refuse To Budge

TOKYO (AP)—North Viet Nam and the United States are standing pat on their conditions for peace in Viet Nam. Each says the other must get out of South Viet Nam.

North Viet Nam Monday rejected an appeal by 17 non-aligned nations for unconditional talks on Viet Nam, listing "withdrawal of foreign military personnel" as one of four conditions for any settlement.

State Secretary Dean Rusk in turn said North Viet Nam must declare it is prepared to "stop sending arms and men over the border."

"If that point is taken care of, then other things could begin to happen speedily."

The North Vietnamese statement, broadcast by the official North Viet Nam news agency, also ruled out any mediation by the United Nations as "inappropriate" and contrary to the 1954 Geneva agreement which partitioned Viet Nam.

The statement had been awaited in Washington as the key to the Hanoi regime's position on President Johnson's April 7 offer for "unconditional discussions" as well as on the appeal signed April 1 by the 17 non-aligned nations in Belgrade.

MADE FOUR DEMANDS

The Hanoi broadcast called for:

1. Recognition of basic national rights of the Vietnamese people.
2. Withdrawal of foreign military personnel in accord with the 1954 Geneva agreement on Viet Nam.
3. Settlement of South Viet Nam's internal affairs "in accordance with the program" of the Communist Viet Cong.
4. Peaceful reunification of Viet Nam "without any foreign interference."

In Washington, Rusk said: "What is missing in the Vietnamese four points is a declaration that they are prepared to stop sending arms and men over the border and that is the key to the matter."

U.S. officials previously said that under the North Vietnamese formula the United States would have to pull out of South Viet Nam, leaving the Saigon government to contend alone with continued North Vietnamese aggression. The result would be to deliver South Viet Nam to the Communist, they said.

Ban Bomb Pact Urged By Lemass

DUBLIN (Reuters)—Premier Sean Lemass called today for the urgent conclusion of an effective international pact to prevent further spread of nuclear weapons.

The Irish leader, addressing the opening session of an Inter-parliamentary Union meeting here attended by 40 delegates from 30 countries, said the emergence of China as a fifth nuclear power makes the conclusion of such a pact more vital than ever.

TEEN-AGER, CHILD UNCONSCIOUS

All Families Can Do Is Wait

VANCOUVER (CP)—A teen-aged girl and a little boy lie unconscious in hospitals 400 miles apart today, attended round the clock in the hope they will wake up.

Marlene Christine Horan, 15, has been in a coma since March 28, when she was hurt in a car crash 30 miles from her Prince Rupert home. She has opened her eyes and moved her limbs, but has given no sign of recognition.

Members of her family take turns at her bedside. At Chilliwack in the Fraser Valley, six-year-old John Frederick Kloot has been motionless and unconscious since the Good Friday accident that killed his brother Bert, 7. They were both hit by a car when they tried to cross a road.

Special nurses have been on duty constantly and his parents have made frequent visits. John has a broken neck, two fractures of the jaw and other head injuries.

Mrs. Alice Horan, the girl's mother, said today:

"The doctors have given us no reason for hope or for repair."

Said Mrs. Kloot: "At first doctors said they could give us no hope but now we have been told he could wake up in a month or two."

Ottawa Studies Move to Keep Papers Under Canadian Control

By VICTOR MACKIE

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Canadian government has in mind preventing wealthy non-Canadians from acquiring ownership of Canadian newspapers or groups of newspapers, by a measure that would make it impracticable for companies to advertise in such publications, it was learned here today.

Under the proposed government action a businessman or company advertising in a non-Canadian controlled newspaper or magazine would be prevented from charging, as an expense for tax purposes, the cost of the advertisement in the foreign controlled publication.

The government a year ago was proposing such measures to protect Canadian magazines from competition from American-owned periodicals. However, it held back because of criticism and re-examined the situation and there are suggestions now from informed sources that it will widen the proposal to include newspapers and by such action it may get through parliament the protective legislation which originally just applied to magazines.

There have been representations from certain large eastern Canadian newspapers to the government for action to prevent American capitalists from acquiring control of large Canadian newspapers or groups of newspapers.

Over the Easter weekend, FP Publications' general manager Richard S. Malone, announced that a group of newspapers was taking steps to "ensure that control of its various newspaper properties in Canada shall remain in Canadian hands." It has applied to the secretary of state for supplementary letters patent approving bylaws which will restrict the transfer of the company's voting shares to Canadian citizens resident in Canada.

Arthur Mayse

What you like for breakfast is your own business, but my idea of a meal to launch me on life's roller-coaster for another day is a steak about the spread of my two hands, medium broiled, with a fried egg nestled sunnily atop.

Add hashed brown potatoes, a tomato slice, crusty toast, fresh-squeezed orange juice and two or perhaps three cups of non-instant coffee, and the world becomes a brighter place. With steak the price it is, though, and time at a premium most mornings, the above menu is mere wishful thinking, to be achieved as a glorious reality perhaps twice a year if I'm lucky.

At our place, as in most homes where school and work impose their arbitrary demands, breakfast is usually a snatch-and-run affair. The plain fact is that at 7 o'clock in the morning, Monday through Friday, we'd a darn-site sooner gobble a bowl of compressed hay at ten to eight than forego an extra half hour of sleep.

On Saturdays and Sundays, of course, the picture changes. Then we're leisurely, even experimental. At intervals from noon on the weekend, our de may carry anything from hot cakes to hamburgers.

This casual foraging is governed by two house-ruled. Everyone does his own cleaning up; and if there's a steak in the refrigerator, nobody gets any fancy ideas about carving a chunk off it.

It seems to me that not enough is made of breakfast, the base upon which each day is built. It can be, and sometimes is, a truly memorable meal.

I have forgotten countless dinners, but a surprising number of breakfasts remain sharp-etched in memory.

Some were in fishing camps where the trout sizzle merrily with the bacon over quick fires of cedar hacked off a handy stump.

A grimmer one was crunched in the lee of a moraine boulder in the middle of a Coast Range glacier. It consisted of one Lifesaver and one spoonful of Grape-nuts, washed down with ice water.

There was also the morning, at the bountiful tables of an up-island logging camp, when a feud of long standing erupted in violence.

In those days, a logging camp breakfast was a solemn and silent preparation for a hard day's work. The tottering stacks of hotcakes, the platters of eggs boiled in their shells, the vats of porridge and the towering coffee pots were diminished in a silence broken only by a "Please pass" or a laconic "Thanks."

For weeks, with no word spoken, Hans the dainty breakfaster on dry cereal watch Ollie the glutton prepare his feast by methods peculiar as they were ghoulish. For a start, Ollie would layer his plate with hotcakes. A dollop of oatmeal mush would follow. Over this, he would break several soft-boiled eggs. Next came a criss-cross of bacon and a drenching of syrup.

Tablemate Hans endured this ritual for months. Then one day, Ollie chose to expand his meal with a peaker of sausage and ketchup. Up from his place with a wordless roar leaped Hans. He snatched a two-foot-long platter, and while eggs flew in all directions, crashed it down on Ollie's pig-shaven scone.

The platter cracked across. Ollie shook his head, lumbered to his feet, and with one great hand, grasped Hans by his nape. With the other, Ollie reached for a coffee pot, which he emptied steaming on his attacker.

Then the camp push canned them both, and breakfast resumed its seemly course.

Those gargantuan spreads aren't for a city man, and I wouldn't dream of sitting down to one these days. Even so, on mornings when time allows only a hasty slice of toast, I do sometimes find myself dreaming of an egg with a succulent steak beneath it!

Woman's Condition Critical

Skull Fractured In Head-On Crash

A pregnant woman was critically injured in a head-on collision between two cars on Shelbourne Street Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Christine Doehnel, 31, of 825 West Saanich Road, suffered a fractured skull and multiple facial cuts.

THROWN OUT

Mrs. Doehnel, who is six months pregnant, was hurled against the windshield of the car driven by her husband and then thrown to the street.

Her husband, Eberhart, 36, suffered severe facial cuts in the mishap. He was detained in hospital and is in fairly good condition.

Saanich police identified the driver of the other car in the accident at Pear and Shelbourne as Mrs. Anna Pine, 2739 Avebury.

The 11-year-old son of the Doehnels, Michael, who was in the back seat of their car, was unhurt.

GIRL HURT

A two-car collision at Hillside and Rose shortly before 2:30 sent a 12-year-old girl to hospital with a severe facial cut.

Vera Mezger, 155 Durrance Road, was later discharged after treatment. Her mother, Mrs. Ann Mezger, 45, driver of their car, was also released after treatment for shock.

Police said the other driver was Edward Parrott, 1837 Feltham. He was unhurt.

Early today a two-car accident at Yates and Cook sent William Adamus, 33, of 614 Niagara, to hospital. He was later released. He was a passenger in a car driven by Wasy Adamus, same address, which was in collision with a vehicle driven by Mark J. Clarke, 16, of 501 Belmont.

A minor collision involving a police car occurred at Gorge and Manchester. No one was injured and damage was minor.

THEY'LL NEED HOT LICKS AND ICE PICKS

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Forty-six Victoria musicians took off today on a 4,000-mile concert tour of the Northwest Territories.

And, unless the weather up there improves, they'll be blowing their instruments in below-zero temperatures.

HIGH SPIRITS

It was 12 below at Fort Smith this morning, and the youngsters were in high spirits when they left the Swartz Bay ferry terminal at 11 a.m. They will travel by train to Edmonton, and then by charter flight to Fort Smith.

"We've been looking forward to this for weeks," said Tom Howe, 17-year-old clarinetist, who has played with the S. J. Willis and Mount View bands for the past six years.

"It will be a great experience for us all," said Howard Denike, who will conduct the Mount View band. "None of us has ever been so far north before."

EX-VICTORIAN

Mr. Denike is accompanied by his wife and Phil Fawcett, band manager. They will be met at Fort Smith by Bernard Gillie, former principal of S. J. Willis school and now superintendent of education for the Northwest Territories.

"It should be tremendous fun," said Barbara Reid, 16, who plays alto saxophone.

The general enthusiasm was shared by percussionists Cathy Lavoie, Sandra Murphy, Virginia McKee and Rick Silver.

The youngsters piled their instruments into a truck before boarding the ferry and were laughing and joking about the weather ahead.

Mr. Gillie arranged the tour to give northern students an example of what Victoria can do in the way of band music. They will demonstrate their instruments at school workshops between the concerts.

They will give concerts at Fort Smith Wednesday evening, Yellowknife Thursday and Hay River Friday, returning to Victoria in time for classes next Monday.

The program, which has been intensively rehearsed, includes The Eighth Army March (Eric Coates), the overture The Messiah (Handel), scored music by Bach; popular musical comedy selections, solos and novelties and vocal ensembles.

Half the cost of the tour is being borne by the Northwest Territories education department; the rest by Mount View parents auxiliary and by student drives, including car-washing, bottle-collecting and concerts.

The Mount View Band won a high award in the Victoria Music Festival last year.

'HOPE THEY DON'T FREEZE,' joked members of Mount View Secondary School Band as they piled their instruments into a truck at the Swartz

Bay ferry. They are embarked on 4,000-mile tour of the Northwest Territories, arranged by Bernard Gillie, formerly of Victoria. (Photo by Strickland)

Civic Leaders Jolted By School Rate Boost

3.62-Mill Increase Surprise to Mayor

Municipal leaders were staggered today by a school mill rate of 23.99, an increase of 3.62 mills over 1964.

"This comes as an unpleasant surprise," Mayor R. B. Wilson commented when the rate was announced by School District 61 this morning.

The mayor noted that school costs must be accepted and are distinct from the general tax rate over which city council has control.

Rates in other adjoining school districts were also up, although not as drastically as in Greater Victoria district.

Sooke district 62 will have a 1965 rate of 25.18 mills, an increase of 1.43 over 1964; Saanich district 63 (covering rural Saanich to North Saanich) has a rate 3.16 mills higher.

District 63 will have a mill rate of 24.64 this year compared to 21.48 last year.

Greater Victoria school district set a budget this year of more than $11 million.

'BAD NEWS'

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis referred to the announced rate as "bad news."

He said when the school board was questioned earlier on inclusion of the whole amount for vocational school construction in this year's budget—although spending would be over a period of years—the casual reply was that it would be only about half a mill.

"This is an incredible attitude for them to take," the reeve said.

The provincial school rate average this year is 25.48 mills, compared with 23.41 last year. Greater Victoria and Sooke officials were quick to point out that rates in their districts come below the provincial average.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said the basic school levy of 15.95 mills is unchanged. Local school boards add to this for non-shareable items such as debt retirement, capital programs and some operating expenses.

WON'T PAY MORE

Mr. Peterson said the increased home owner grant (up $15 from 1964) will cover mill rate increases so that ratepayers will not be asked to pay more than 1964.

Details of the Greater Victoria school rate were being worked out by officials who have to take into account federal grants in lieu of taxes for such things as the Esquimalt naval base.

Provincial grant to the district this year is $4,358,947, an increase of $89,627 based on the same formula as 1964.

Before the individual mill rate is known in each municipality, the school board must pro rate the grant.

TOPICS of the DAY

The huge, 42,000-ton P & O Orient liner Oriana will pause off Brothie Ledge Friday at 3:30 p.m. to pick up pilot en route to Vancouver.

The British cruise ship is inbound from the U.K. via Suez and the South Pacific.

She will sail out of Vancouver Saturday at 6 p.m. for her home port of Southampton via the Panama Canal.

The CNR Alaska cruise ship Prince George will arrive here Wednesday morning with 200 passengers on an Easter cruise.

It will be the first appearance here for the ship since the summer of 1963 when she was en route to the Seattle World's Fair.

The ship operates out of Vancouver during the summer on cruises to Skagway, Alaska. It is one of the largest passenger cruisers on Canada's west coast.

It will tie up at the CPE dock in the Inner Harbor at 8 a.m. and depart at 11:45 a.m. for a cruise around the island and a trip to Seattle.

Gerry Oulette, 2205 Chambers, told police he arrested him April 15 on Government Street that if he took a breath test it would show he was impaired.

He was right. Oulette registered a blood alcohol count of .20 per cent when tested.

In court today he pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was fined $300. His licence was suspended.

Police said he attracted their attention by twice crossing the centre line on Government and then almost losing control of his car as he turned on to Discovery Street.

An 18-year-old Alberni girl was a good risk for probation even though she tried to fool the court. Magistrate William Ostler said today.

He placed Margaret Hoehn on a $250 bond for two years when he sentenced her on three charges of shoplifting.

He told the girl she lied when she said, on her first appearance, that she was still at school. She said she did it because "I didn't want my parents to find out" about the charges.

The magistrate said Miss Hoehn's pre-sentence report showed she was trying to "prove herself" despite difficulties and is "not afraid of hard work."

Q. Could you please tell me how old Shirley Temple is and what year she made her last picture?

A. She's 27 and recently began work on a TV film, "Go Fight City Hall," at 20th Century-Fox after 15 years of retirement.

Q. When was Bess Myerson Miss America?

A. She was chosen Miss America in 1945 and held the title until September, 1946. She was 21 at the time.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Victoria 'Natural' For Garden Art

A school board official believes "Victoria" could become Canada's major producer of "garden art."

Kenneth Bloomfield, research consultant for the Greater Victoria School Board, and part-time sculptor, said today Victoria gardens are natural show places for outdoor sculpture—an art which is gaining in popularity.

"There are excellent materials—rock and wood—in our gardens for sculpturing," he said. "They would add interest to the landscaping and could become feature attractions."

The 40-year-old Irish-born teacher and artist is well known on Vancouver Island for his outdoor sculpture. Wooded Wonderland at Beaver Lake has some.

He has been asked to make a Buddha for the oriental garden at Butchart's Gardens.

After working hours at his 6960 Central Saanich Road residence, the artist turns out an amazing assortment of sculpture. They vary from abstract to classical pieces—faces and animals.

BEACHWOOD

His wooden works are mainly made of beachwood. He hacks away at his material with an Indian adze bequeathed to him by a friend of Chief Mungo Martin.

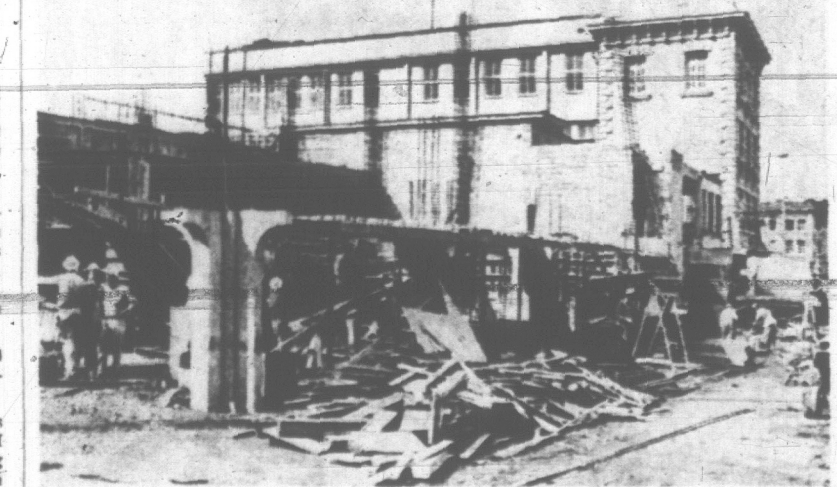

"The Indian adze is a magic tool," he said. "I rarely use anything else for sculpturing in wood."

Mr. Bloomfield attended Queen's University of Belfast before coming to Canada in 1955. In 1959 he emigrated to California, but after a short spell there decided there was no place like British Columbia.

ARTISTIC WIFE

His wife, Kathleen, who hails from Inniskillen, home of the famous Royal Irish Fusiliers and Dragoons, is also an artist. She holds art classes for children and adults.

Mr. Bloomfield has been chosen by the Saanich Peninsula Art Centre to demonstrate the art of sculpturing at the Centre's art show at Sanscha Hall on May 29. His wife will show her works and those of her students.

NEW FACE on Fisgard Street is that of city police station and courtrooms, although the old architecture will be retained and modified. Sturdy police building will have all new ad-

Police Move Back in August

City police expect to occupy their new Centennial Square home well ahead of schedule.

Police quarters will be first finished in a complex embracing magistrate's courts and lockup.

Little of the finished form will be recognizable, save the exterior walls of the original building.

Police are hoping for a moving day in August, although other parts of the Square project may extend into the fall. Target date for completing the police station-court complex is September 30.

Interior of the police station was virtually gutted, except for the cell block.

NEW LOOK

But with some structural changes, new lighting and complete refinishing, even the jail will look new.

60-year cells with their primitive facilities, ingrained odor, dingy, defaced walls and ceilings.

The change might even improve the frame of mind of occupants, one of whom left behind the following immortal inscription as he stood on a stairway waiting to go before the magistrate:

The vilest deeds.
Like poison weeds,
Bloom best on prison air.

Three stocks hit new highs on the Vancouver Stock Exchange at noon today.

In the oils, Fargo rose 60 cents to a new high of $3.45.

Quintino rose half a cent to a new peak of 15 1/2 cents in the mines while Massey-Ferguson put on 25 cents to $34.50 for a new mark in the industrials.

AT LONDON the stock market was quiet after the holiday weekend but the tone was firm and small gains predominated.

B.C. Telephone rose one dollar to $70 on the industrial board.

AT TORONTO Banff, which sold as low as $1.30 a share in January, dropped 34 cents to $8.80 on 97,622 shares. The firm has been receiving encouraging news from its northwestern Alberta explorations.

Dynamic Petroleum fell 3 to 73 cents on 176,345 shares while Canadian Homestead added 55 cents to $1.65 on 197,582 shares. The latter said it knew of no reason for its rise of $1 Monday.

In the main list, Bank of Nova Scotia gained 1 1/2 to 79 and Royal Bank a point to 80 1/2. Consolidated Paper added 1/4 to 46.

Metals climbed. Lake DuFault added 1/2 at 13 1/2 and Kilmere Copper 1/2 to a high of 12 1/2.

AT NEW YORK volume was 6,400,000 shares compared with 5,710,000 Monday.

Disappointment over Chrysler's quarterly earnings reversed an uptrend in that stock, which showed a net loss of about 1 1/2 points in late dealings. Selling spread to some of the other auto stocks.

The most actively traded issue was Texas Gulf Sulphur, sold heavily on news of a suit against the company because of insider stock transactions. It took a 3-point loss at the start, then cut a point from the decline.

Pearson on Tensions

Viet Key
To World
Accord

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson, although noting continuing co-operation between East and West in world forums, views immediate prospects for improved international understanding as "not encouraging."

Mr. Pearson was replying to six written questions on international matters put to him by The Associated Press, the United States news-gathering agency.

He was asked, in his opinion, if prospects for international understanding are better or worse than a year ago?

"These matters," he replied, "could not be assessed in time periods of 12 months. In some ways prospects were better, in others worse.

"As regards East-West relations, immediate prospects are not encouraging particularly because of the Viet Nam crisis."

"Nevertheless, the West continues to co-operate with the Communist states in many international forums and if peace can be restored in Viet Nam I am optimistic that over the long term, real progress can be made in furthering East-West understanding."

Greater Co-operation Seen

The past year had seen the first United Nations conference on trade and development and creation of permanent machinery to further its work. This was a "very important move which should lead to greater understanding and co-operation in solving the problems of the less-developed countries."

Another question asked: The Chinese People's Republic now possesses a nuclear weapon. In view of this, how do you assess the CPR's role in the world, particularly with regard to its exclusion from UN membership?

Mr. Pearson thought the question needed clarifying.

Ignore Certain Principles

Peking's exclusion from the UN did not arise from the "military or national weakness of that regime" but from the "effect on the minds of other governments of its apparent unwillingness to recognize and abide by certain principles, the chief of which is the right of the inhabitants of Formosa to self-determination and appropriate international status."

The "aggressive ideological policies of Communist China" would become "more dangerous when China is a nuclear power." Such possession would also increase Peking's prestige "especially among Asian and African states."

It would also give strength to the argument that it should be admitted to the UN "so that it can be forced to explain and defend its policies before the world assembly and take its share of responsibility for international efforts toward disarmament and security."

He was asked, as one closely associated in the past with solutions to dangerous international crises, notably the Suez affair, if he thought there is a prospect for peaceful solutions in Indochina or in the Indonesia-Malaysia dispute?

The prime minister said there is always the prospect for a peaceful solution for every international dispute. Although these two "seem intractable" with a minimum of goodwill and trust they could be solved.

'Neither Honorable Or Lasting'

The Viet Nam conflict was complicated "by its exploitation by international communism and the intervention of the U.S. to help South Viet Nam resist aggression."

A solution in Indochina would involve "arrangements for ensuring the independence, neutrality and territorial integrity of the countries forming part of the region." Laos, Cambodia and South Viet Nam "should be permitted to pursue their goals in peace and security, free of the threat of aggression and subversion promoted by authorities outside their borders."

"Any solution based on capitulation to aggression would be neither honorable nor lasting." The basic requirement in Viet Nam would appear to be a decision by North Viet Nam "to desist from their present policies and to leave their neighbors alone."

In the Indonesia-Malaysia dispute, Canada was concerned and worried "by the policy of confrontation adopted by Indonesia against its neighbor."

"Canada will extend to Malaysia $4,000,000 in military air transport equipment and training facilities in Canada."

The UN General Assembly, Mr. Pearson was asked, has been unable to vote its 1965 budget for fear of forcing the issue of Article 19 on penalties for non-payment of arrears by some nations. As a former president of the UN, how do you view its future as a peace-keeping organization against the background of this issue and of the Congo crisis?

Mr. Pearson: "You should remember that the framers of the UN charter assumed that the great powers would have the primary responsibility for keeping the peace." In the light of the history of postwar disagreement between the great powers the UN has compiled a remarkable record of keeping

Rips Bar

SAIGON (CP) — The loss of a U.S. Navy Skyraider over North Viet Nam and the explosion of a terrorist bomb today pushed the American casualty toll in the Viet Nam war higher as officials investigated a possible Communist attempt to capture Premier Phan Huy Quat.

A U.S. 7th Fleet spokesman said the Skyraider pilot was killed today when his propeller-driven aircraft crashed while making a pass over a group of trucks along Highway 1, about 50 miles north of the border.

Seventeen South Vietnamese were killed, 38 wounded and four American servicemen injured when a Communist Viet Cong bomb ripped through a bar at Ban Me Thuot, about 160 miles northeast of Saigon, Monday night.

The Viet Cong killed an American civilian and several South Vietnamese in an ambush of a construction crew on the Bien Hoa Highway just north of Saigon Monday night. He was an employee of the Hydro-technic Corporation, a private firm hired by the U.S. aid mission to install a new water line into the capital. American and South Vietnamese planes continued their

Ottawa Studies Move to Keep
Papers Under Canadian ControlBy VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Canadian government has in mind preventing wealthy non-Canadians from acquiring ownership of Canadian newspapers or groups of newspapers, by a measure that would make it impracticable for companies to advertise in such publications, it was learned here today.

Under the proposed government action a businessman or company advertising in a non-Canadian-controlled newspaper or magazine would be prevented from charging, as an expense for tax purposes, the cost of the advertisement in the foreign controlled publication.

The government a year ago was proposing such measures to protect Canadian magazines from competition from American-owned periodicals. However, it held back because of criticism and re-examined the situation and there are suggestions now from informed sources that it will widen the

A Peking broadcast said the standing committee of the National Peoples Congress (parliament) ordered the preparations in the form of a resolution adopted unanimously this afternoon.

"In the name of the 630,000,000 Chinese people," the resolution said, "the standing committee of the National Peoples Congress of China today solemnly passed a resolution calling on the People's organizations and their people throughout China to make full preparations to send their own people to fight together with the Vietnamese people and drive out the U.S. aggressors in the event that U.S. imperialism continues to escalate its war of aggression and the Vietnamese people need them."

The legislative body is empowered to decide on the proclamation of a state of war.

"The Chinese government and the Chinese people have solemnly declared that aggression by U.S. imperialism against the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam means aggression against China."

FULFIL OBLIGATIONS

"The Chinese people have always been infinitely loyal in fulfilling their proletarian internationalist obligations; they always mean what they say. Both past and present struggles testify to this."

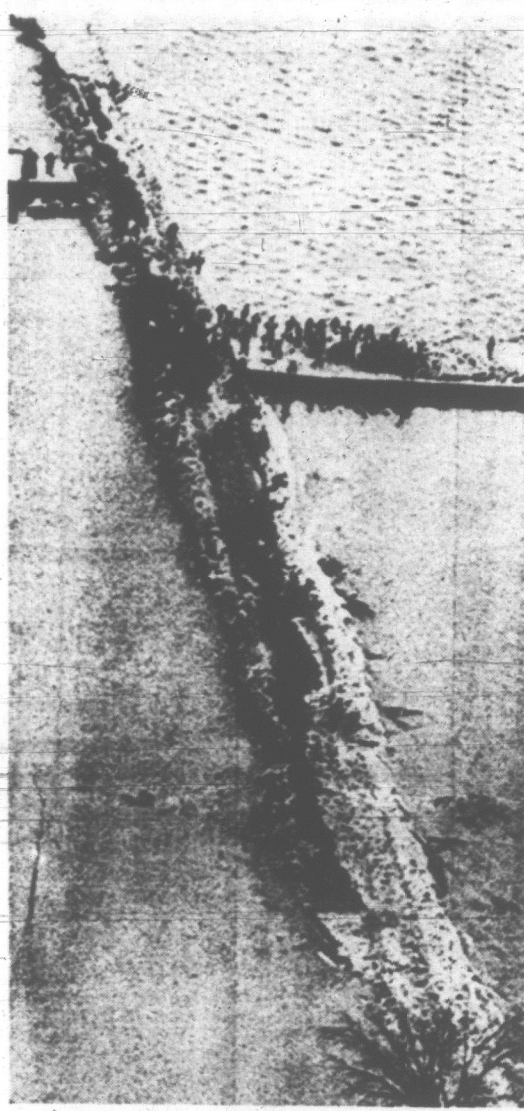

In the fall of 1950, China sent "volunteers" into the Korean War.

The Chinese expressed support for North Vietnamese appeal which called, among other things, for a halt in U.S. air strikes on North Viet Nam and the withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Viet Nam.

"We maintain that the necessary conditions for a political settlement of the Viet Nam problem can be created only by forcing the United States to withdraw all its armed forces from Viet Nam," the resolution said.

GAS TANK TILTS

Town in Grip
Of Fire Peril

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — A tilting storage tank laden with 107,000 gallons of gasoline added an awesome fire peril today to the woes of La Crosse, braced for the record crest sweeping down the Mississippi River Valley.

"God, can you imagine fire moving along on this crest," said a police officer assigned to the emergency guard over the tank farm where a total of 15,

A 75-foot rupture in a protecting dike poured eight feet of water over the tank area Monday, and Fire Chief Fred Genz, Sr., said the "potential danger" increased with the exposure of the tanks to flood debris.

While the self-sealing tanks around them is coated by an oil slick from a nearby auto junk yard.

The Mississippi climbed to 17.4 feet, more than five feet over flood stage at La Crosse, as it swept downriver.

At Winona, Minn., about 25 miles to the north, nearly 1,000 persons left their homes in an orderly evacuation when water began coming up through storm sewers after seeping under protective dikes.

Deep sea diving equipment was ferried across the Mississippi by National Guardsmen from Eau Claire, Wis., to Winona where volunteer divers placed an inflatable fabric bag in a manhole to seal off the flow. Two other sewers were to be plugged the same way.

The river was expected to crest today at Winona at 21½ feet, 8½ feet above flood level, and crest at 18 feet at La Crosse Monday.

H. R. MacMillan
Thugs' Target

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two young holdup men pushed lumber magnate H. R. MacMillan, 79, into a closet today, then fled empty-handed from his palatial Vancouver home.

Police said the pair knocked on the door of the home and when he answered it in person, one of them waved a cleaver-type knife and demanded $150,000.

Mr. MacMillan told them he had no such amount of money in the house. He was pushed into a closet and the holdup men were frightened off by sounds in the house, apparently made by the cook.

Mr. MacMillan, who established the colossal MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited lumber empire, was unhurt.

Mr. MacMillan, recently returned from a holiday in Mexico, answered the door himself because he was expecting J. V. Clynne, chairman of the board of MBPR.

Police said that on being admitted, one of the men produced a meat cleaver and demanded $150,000.

The second man remained outside, talking to gardener Hilding Lindrock who was working at the side of the home.

Mr. MacMillan told the man with the cleaver he didn't have that much money in the house.

"You've got it in the bank," the man replied.

He then pushed the lumber magnate into a closet and ran upstairs. But he apparently panicked when he heard members of the household staff and ran from the house.

The two were seen running down the street and were believed to have escaped in a car.

Police said nothing was taken from the house and Mr. MacMillan was unperturbed.

"Just a couple of guys trying a bit of extortion," the lumber magnate said.

OFFENDER

(See also Page 2)

VANCOUVER (CP) — Russell Spears was a known sexual psychopath who should long ago have been permanently jailed, says a North Vancouver veterinarian who knew the accused killer.

Dr. R. E. Earnshaw said in a letter to Attorney-General Bonner that Spears went to jail once before after a series of actions repeated almost exactly in the Okanagan last week.

The letter was made public after Spears shot himself Monday when a police dog flushed him out after a 10-day police hunt. Spears had been accused of slaying RCMP Const. Neil Bruce at Westbank, near Kelowna.

Dr. Earnshaw said Spears had been charged time and again with sexual offences. He had fired at two police constables and been shot in the legs, making him permanently crippled and bitter against police officers.

"If ever a man should have been permanently detained for the protection of the public it was Spears," he said.

'LIKELY TO KILL'

The Vancouver Sun today quotes an unnamed prison official as disclosing that Spears was assessed as "still dangerous and likely to kill" before he was released from penitentiary 12 months ago.

"But we had no power to do anything but release him when he had served his sentence, less the remission he earned," the official is quoted as saying.

The Criminal Code now enables "men like Spears to be confined indefinitely. But the provision was introduced in 1948, and Spears has not been convicted since of an offence which would bring him under this provision.

The letter of the law did not make provision for the convictions he did earn—assault with intent to commit rape and contributing to the sexual delinquency. He was charged in 1962 with indecent assault but found guilty on the lesser offence of common assault.

Prairies
Shivering
And White

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta and Saskatchewan shivered in below-normal temperatures today and shuddered at the prospect of more cold and snow.

The temperature dropped to three degrees below zero early today at Fort McMurray, 250 miles northeast of Edmonton. Grande Prairie in the Peace River area reported six degrees.

Edmonton had 15 degrees and light snow. It was 18 in Calgary, 17 at Prince Albert and 26 in Regina.

Generally, temperatures were 20 to 25 degrees below normal. The weather office predicted continued cold weather and some snow.

In U.S. Stand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today that the newest Communist Chinese threat to send troops to Viet Nam would not alter the U.S. position on military support for the South Vietnamese.

Rusk made the statement after he and other members of the cabinet conferred with President Johnson at the White House.

Action Against Kanester Dropped

VANCOUVER (CP) — An application to have Larry Kenneth Kanester, 25, declared a dangerous sexual offender was withdrawn in Supreme Court today.

The withdrawal followed an appeal court decision last week quashing two Victoria rape convictions against Kanester and ordering a new trial.

Toronto Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Twelve hundred members of the United Automobile Workers (UAW) went on strike today at the suburban New Toronto foundry of the Anaconda American Brass Company after a long contract dispute.
